skate. Jurg works in a veterinary clinic. I hope to get some hair-dressing experience over there before we return. Naturally my parents are a little disappointed as they would have liked us to be married here. But they can see it's a wonderful trip.

And how long to go?

"Twenty-six days."

From a February issue of the Hawera Star.

Four frogs were sitting peaceably on a log when it became caught by a current and carried into a swiftly flowing river. One frog credited the log with having life; the second said that the river, walking to the sea, carried the log on its back; the third frog said that neither the log nor the river was moving, but the moving was in the frogs' thinking, for without thought nothing moves. The fourth frog said "Each of you is right and none of you is wrong. The moving is in the log and the water and our thinking also." None of the first three was willing to admit that his was not the whole truth and that the other two were partly right. So they got together and pushed the fourth frog into the river.

Kahlil Gibran, Syrian-American symbolist poet.

Laugh a little . . .

"Jack, you should close your curtains in the sitting room," a friend suggests, "last evening I saw you giving your wife a kiss."

"Ha-ha you are all wrong," Jack answers laughingly. "Last evening I was not even at home!" —Nebelspalter.
