Federal

The Federal Department of Justice and Police has expelled two officials of the Soviet Embassy in Berne. Their names are not given. (In the case of the arrest of officials enjoying diplomatic immunity from trial, it is customary not to disclose their names or status; this information may be gleaned later from the lists, periodically published by the Swiss Government, of arrivals and departures amongst the staffs of foreign missions in Berne.)

The Russian Ambassador, Monsieur Nikolai Koriuchin, was called to the Foreign Office, where he was informed of the arrest of two members of his Embassy on a charge of espionage, and was told that they would have to leave Swiss territory within twenty-four hours — as is usual in such cases. He protested against the arrest and expulsion.

The two officials were arrested at a restaurant near the railway station in Zurich, as they were about to make contact with an agent of the Soviet intelligence service. These men should have received from the agent — against payment — plans of military radar installations in Switzerland, and information about the organisation of the Swiss army.

A Russian Note to the Swiss Government concerning the arrest and expulsion of two members of the Russian Embassy in Berne protests against the Swiss action, which the Russians describe as “unlawful and provocative”. They suggest it was taken in the interests of certain circles which on the eve of the Summit Conference seek to aggravate the international situation. The Note says that the Russian Government expects that the Swiss Government will take the necessary measures for punishment of the culprits and for avoiding in the future a repetition of unfriendly incidents.

The Swiss Foreign Office has accompanied the publication of the Note by a short comment saying that the measures taken against the Russian Embassy men have no relation whatever with either the United States aircraft incident or the Summit Conference. They say that the coincidence of these events is exclusively due to the illicit activity of the two Russian officials who had been caught red-handed. It was not in the interests of the Swiss authorities to organize any provocation, as Switzerland, like all peace-loving countries, wished the Summit Conference to be a success. The Swiss said that the authorities acted in the present case as in all similar cases, and they would continue to take the necessary measures against all those who commit espionage offences on Swiss territory either against the Swiss Confederation or against other countries.

The Swiss Government has rejected, as insulting, a Russian protest against the expulsion of two Russian Embassy Officials from Switzerland on a charge of espionage. Switzerland has also rejected a Russian request for punishment of those “guilty of the gross provocation”, and for Swiss assurances that such incidents would not be repeated.
