BRITISH ECONOMIC MEASURES

The 15% surcharge has been accepted in Switzerland with misgivings as exports to Great Britain are considerable. The watch and the machine industries are hit particularly hard.

At an extraordinary meeting on 26th November, the Federal Council empowered the Swiss National Bank to grant 160 million dollars (688 million Swiss francs) to Great Britain in order to support sterling within the framework of international action.

With this Switzerland continues her traditional support for the British Pound. At the last EFTA Conference she defended sterling resolutely.

NEWS IN BRIEF

A Polish nobleman in exile, Count Anthony Patek, and a young French watchmaker by the name of Adrien Philippe founded the firm of Patek Philippe in Geneva in 1839. Among its clients the enterprise could soon proudly name Queen Victoria and some thirty other crowned heads and outstanding personalities. The 125th anniversary of this world famous Swiss watch factory was recently celebrated in Geneva.

The church of Zell in the Tösstal is witnessing rehearsals by 106 young villagers of Paul Burkart's sacred play "De Zäller Josef" (Joseph of Zell). This is the second play which the composer — known worldwide by the song "Oh mein Papa" from his musical "Der schwarze Hecht" — dedicated to the enthusiastic youth of this small village where he himself has found a home. Four years ago, he wrote "Zäller Wienacht" (Christmas at Zell) which is to be produced in a translation on TV in the U.S.A. next year.

ANOTHER SILVER MEDAL FROM TOKIO

On 19th November, Miss Lina Küng from Basle arrived back from Tokio where she won a silver medal in archery at the Para-Olympic Games for people suffering from spinal injuries.

From Japan, too, came instructors in Aikido, when the fourteenth course in self-defence for customs and police officials took place at the federal sports centre at Mägglingen. It must have been a strange sight to see hefty policemen being thrown and downed by the gentle Miss Sakido Jonue! The art of Aikido is to use the forces set in motion by the attacker for his own defeat. The Japanese instructors were accompanied by a Swiss Mr. J. Bötschi who has been in the Far East for eighteen years and is himself an expert in this art of self-defence.
