One solution Solidarity Fund of the Swiss abroad

THE NEW CONSTITUTION

was accepted by the General Meeting of the Solidarity Fund in Neuchâtel on 23rd August 1974. They enable the Fund to have to the personal needs of members. As hitherto, the means of livelihood of members are insured against political risks in their country of residence.

GREATER ADAPTABILITY

In addition, there now exists a chance to help them in their second concern,

Consolidation of savings in Switzerland;

viz. the Fund offers the Swiss abroad further security not to be despised, and with this it has made considerable progress.

HOW?

By creating

THREE RISK CATEGORIES

In future, when joining the Fund, one will have to consider two questions:

1. What is more important to you, Savings deposits in Switzerland or insuring your means of livelihood abroad?

According to your assessment, you have the choice of

Category I – great risk (small savings)

Category III – small risk (large savings)

Category II – risk and savings much the same.

2. How do you want to pay your contributions, by making annual or single deposits?

The annual contribution is less of a burden financially. But it takes a certain time until savings can be repaid at 100% and carry interest, viz.

24 years in Class I

10 years in Class II

5 years in Class III

The Lump Sum Savings Deposit offers the most advantageous conditions to the investor. It yields interest and allows the interest to accumulate right from the first year onwards, namely

2% in Category I

3% in Category II

3½% in Category III

(See diagram B on next page)

Now is the time to join!

WHY?

One look at the general world situation is sufficient.

1. The political situation:

How many unforeseen events have we witnessed this year?

2. The economic situation:

Everything is on the move, prices rise everywhere. The Swiss franc is one of the safest currencies in the world. The Swiss Confederation guarantees statutory payments by the Solitarity Fund.

For you, too, there is a solution

Which one? Make use of the application form on page 6.

The Fund will send you its publicity pamphlets and will be pleased to propose you a way of joining.

Notice to present members of the Fund

Unless you make an application for a change from one risk category to another, you will be a member of Risk Category I.

Roland Collombin

«The more or less flat parts of the descent track I do not like. One is tempted there to reflect and to ask oneself questions.» More than a year ago, Roland Collombin sketched his own self-portrait in these simple words. That was when he had his first success at Kitzbuehl.

He, the skier by instinct («I don't know how I take these undulations and bumps»), the man who can detach himself more easily from his surroundings than any others, the friend who would never betray an old comrade, and the great youngster intoxicated by speed, is the best skier of today. Certainly, his fall at the World Championships at St. Moritz has deprived him of a victory he had earned a long time ago. Shortly before and within a month, he had won with considerable superiority the four great «classic» races of the winter season: Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Morzine, Wengen and Kitzbuehl. Four masterpieces, four undisputed proofs of his great skill on four completely different tracks. Whenever it mattered to believe in victory and to defy danger, he was there, wherever it mattered to have sure command over his skis and to calculate the bends accurately, even his opponents admired him. With his healthy, natural common sense, his candour, Roland Collombin discovers his rivals daily anew. Every day they, on their part, got to know him from yet another unaccustomed side. And soon his natural and extremely simple training methods won him the legendary reputation of a Jean-Claude Killy and of Karl Schranz said to be invincible.

Within two years, Roland Collombin won eight world cup victories,
