In Lausanne shortly: Get away from the worries of retirement

Les Séquoias

Project of a village whose result of an inquiry made among the first sixty interested persons.

A revolutionary idea of the manner in which one should live in retirement

The Foundation Louis-Boissonnet which has been running a social-medical centre since 1874, will open a

COMMUNITY LIVING CENTRE

by the end of 1983; it is for all those who are preparing for a happy and care-free retirement. 130 studios and flats with a club house and a sick-ward near at hand, offer comfort and security and allow a full and rich life after leaving work.

With a financial admission payment, every resident acquires the right to live there for life. The amount is worked out according to age on admission.

Example: (65 years)

Studio of 42 m² from Fr. 47 000.-

Flat of 81 m² from Fr. 99 000.-

Flat of 109 m² from Fr. 133 000.-

In the monthly rent (from Fr. 1200.-) are included: three meals a day, electricity, hot water and heating, house staff, nursing staff at the sick-ward, upkeep of the flat and use of communal facilities as well as free use of leisure rooms.

Everything has been planned in such a way as to allow each individual to live according to his own habits and inclinations in the most pleasant way possible. Surrounded by gardens and not far from the centre of the town, every inhabitant may enjoy his own home in a quiet and pleasing atmosphere. In case of sickness, every possible help is given immediately.
