The Fund – Solidarity Fund for Swiss Abroad

A name for unique insurances

The Solidarity Fund for Swiss Abroad – recently renamed ‘The Fund’ – is a concept for a great many of our compatriots living abroad. Today 9,760 Swiss abroad belong to this self-help organization which provides unrivalled benefits all over the world.

There are three letters which make every marketing expert and entrepreneur happy. They are USP, standing for ‘unique selling proposition’. This means that the supplier has no competition and that his product or services are therefore likely to be successful. The Fund, too, offers USP services. The latest unique offer is a sickness insurance which facilitates entry constantly increasing. For The Fund, therefore, the health sector is also the field in which new benefits are being energetically sought.

To build bridges for Swiss abroad, to insure risks which no one else wants to insure and to aim its services at the constantly changing protection and security needs of the Swiss abroad – those will be The Fund’s most important goals in the future, too. Such dynamism and flexibility form the basis for a package of benefits which Swiss abroad are glad to take advantage of.

For detailed information about The Fund and the insurances please apply to: The Fund (Der Fonds), Gutenbergstr.6, 3011 Berne.

Attractive sickness insurance

The great hit among the benefits offered by The Fund is the sickness insurance introduced in 1988. Last year alone it gained The Fund 900 new members. This success makes it clear that those running the organization have once again managed to close a gap in the social welfare field. The sickness insurance, which permits low-cost transfer to a Swiss fund, meets a real need felt by many Swiss abroad at a time when health costs are

A short word-picture of The Fund

Who are the people who make sure that our compatriots all over the world can cover themselves against their special risks in the best possible way? They are introduced to you in the following short word-picture.

Board and Committee

The Fund’s top management echelon is the Board, comprising 20 members, who must include two representatives of the Federal Administration designated by the Federal Council. The Committee set up by the Board is responsible for the current business. The Chairman of the Board and Committee is Dr Hans J. Halbheer from Zürich.

The Secretariat

The actual contact point for Swiss abroad is the Secretariat, with its nine members. The person with overall responsibility for the business is Benito Invernizzi, the Director. Personal contact with the Swiss communities abroad is among the functions of this amateur tennis-player, skier and marksman.

Ursula Baumann’s province is advice on sickness insurance matters. Her favourite recreations are reading and concert-and theatre-going.

Anyone who sends requests for compensation to Berne, or seeks information on matters of detail, falls into Rosmarie Kaufmann’s domain; sport in the open air and reading are the pastimes she enjoys.

In her part-time job Renate Schenk deals with resignations, deaths, alterations to insurance benefits etc. Renate Schenk, who corresponds with people all over the world, likes to look beyond the horizons of her homeland in her spare time, too, which makes it obvious what her hobby is: foreign countries and peoples.

Trudi Grob is an indispensable pillar of the Secretariat because she helps out wherever there is a problem. In private life Trudi Grob is well known for her passionate fondness for entertaining.

Monika Lyner’s job description is short and to the point: responsibility for the Secretariat. That covers receiving visitors operating the telephone, dealing with the incoming post, taking minutes, enrolling new members, correspondence and despatching all kinds of material. Her hobbies? Jazz dancing, jogging, swimming.

Up-to-date data are a fundamental part of the work of The Fund: as a data typist Binia Gruber is responsible for all amendments in electronic data processing. Thanks to the fact that she is employed part-time, she has enough leisure for rambling and handicrafts.

Finally, to ensure that everything is correct, the two bookkeepers, Heinz Brand – he will shortly be retiring – and Dominique Metthez, look after The Fund’s accounts and balance-sheets. Dominique Metthez’s hobbies are far removed from figures and electronic data processing, namely, gardening and cooking.

Return of a Swiss Abroad

'An elderly distant relative of mine, who was born in Zurich, left in the Thirties for Italy where, by marriage, she acquired Italian nationality too. After the death of her husband she stayed on in Italy. Now, however, she is in hospital with a broken leg and, as she is already getting on for 90, she come – Swiss, it is open to her, under the Federal Act on Welfare Benefits for Swiss Abroad, to submit to the competent Swiss consulate a request for assistance and repatriation to Switzerland. If the legal conditions are fulfilled, her return home and her maintenance for the first three months might be financed by the Confederation, provided they cannot be paid for out of her own means, Swiss O.A.I. pensions and supplementary benefits. The authorities charged with this matter under cantonal law would be competent. The question of who should assume further living costs would have to be settled between the cantons of residence and origin in accordance with the Federal Act on Responsibility for Assisting Persons in Need.

However, not only the authorities in Switzerland but her relatives, too, are under an obligation to provide financial support. The competent welfare authority would, if necessary, undertake the appropriate clarification.

The first thing that will have to be clarified is the possibility that your relative may have lost her Swiss citizenship through her marriage to an Italian national. If she is still – or has again be-
