Pension for Junior is meant for young couples and investors. It is implemented in two independent stages. The first phase is the constitution of a guaranteed capital combined with an insurance cover for the protection of the family in case of death. The second phase (life annuity), assures a stable and regular income, as long as the investor is alive. This is an optional phase that begins at the end of the first phase.

Pension for Senior is meant for couples or individuals more advanced in age, with an available capital. They are no longer in need of insurance protection, but rather a stable and regular retirement income that would guarantee their financial independence and quality of life. Various types of pension plans exist so that their needs may be adapted to, in the most optimal manner.
