Change of address now possible via the Internet

Have you moved recently or are you about to? You must inform the representation (embassy or general consulate) where you are registered of any change of address. You can now easily register a change of address via the website of your representation. The websites of the Swiss embassies and general consulates are listed at www.eda.admin.ch (Representations).

Electronic delivery of "Swiss Review" and other publications

The Swiss Parliament has adopted the 2009 Federal Budget, which provides for cuts in funding for "Swiss Review" on a scale of CHF 500,000. The largest item of expenditure for "Swiss Review" are printing and postal costs. The use of the Internet enables postal costs to be reduced thanks to electronic delivery. Electronic delivery of "Swiss Review" also has other benefits:

- Quicker, more reliable delivery to many countries irrespective of location. You receive "Swiss Review" immediately after publication, which means the articles are more current.
- Free choice of language: you can now choose for yourself the language in which you would like to read "Swiss Review" (not applicable to regional sections).

"Swiss Review" has a new and modern Internet design. The electronic and paper versions of "Swiss Review" are identical. You can easily flick through the individual pages on screen at the click of a mouse just like with the paper version (flash page flip).

A more efficient way of providing information, particularly in emergency situations

Registering for electronic delivery of information helps the FDFA to keep its database updated with your e-mail address and enables the FDFA and the representations to provide information more efficiently about important topics or in an emergency situation.

HOW DO I REGISTER FOR ELECTRONIC DELIVERY OF "SWISS REVIEW"?

All Swiss citizens abroad of full legal age registered with a Swiss representation (embassy or general consulate) as a head of a household* can register for electronic delivery of "Swiss Review" on the website www.swissabroad.ch, i.e. everyone who currently receives "Swiss Review". Only one type of publication (electronic or paper) and one registration is permitted per registered head of a household.

* One person of full legal age is indicated in the representation's registration list as a head of a household to avoid duplication of delivery. If children of full legal age live at the same address, these are considered as independent heads of a household and must register for the electronic version themselves if they wish to receive it.

A few easy steps to register:

1. The link www.swissabroad.ch will take you to the welcome page of the registration homepage. After the introduction, click on the link: online registration
2. Please complete at least all the mandatory fields marked with * based on an official document (Swiss passport, identity card or birth certificate). Your personal details will be compared with the information in the representation's database to check identification.
3. When you click on the  button after completing all the fields, the system will check your details. If not all the fields marked * have been completed correctly or in full, you will receive an error message. Complete the missing details and try again. When all the fields have been completed correctly, you will move on to another page.
4. On this page, you can order publications by clicking on the fields:
  - The online version of "Swiss Review" and official information from your Swiss representation and the Federal Department of Foreign Affairs
  - Other cultural and economic information or your representation's events calendar if available.
 You will also provide us with your e-mail address on this page.
5. Click on the  button if you want to change your personal data.
6. Click on the  button to send your registration to the FDFA for processing. Please note the message on the next page.
7. After internal processing you will receive an e-mail containing a link. Click on this link to confirm your registration. This step prevents a third person registering in your name and ensures data protection.
8. After completing your registration, you will receive e-mail confirmation. The publications you have ordered will be sent to you by e-mail in future.

If you wish to change or cancel the order for the publications at a later date, you can do so at any time on the same homepage at www.swissabroad.ch

The data you enter will be subject to the Federal Law on Data Protection (DSG, SR 235.1) and will not be passed on to third parties.

You may still receive the next edition of "Swiss Review" in paper form despite registering at www.swissabroad.ch. The addresses for postal delivery have to be processed several weeks before "Swiss Review" is printed and this may result in overlaps.

SANDRA MARTIN, FDFA, PROJECT MANAGER

Electronic delivery takes account of changes in the reading habits of many Swiss people abroad. Make the most of the benefits of this efficient, modern service. Register to receive "Swiss Review" electronically and be amongst the first to obtain information from Switzerland.
