In 2018, more than one in ten Swiss nationals lived abroad

There were 760,200 Swiss living abroad at the end of 2018 – a slight increase on the previous year. Most are based in Europe, particularly in France. In some countries, the 65-plus age group accounts for over a quarter of Swiss living abroad.

In 2018, 760,200 Swiss were registered with a Swiss diplomatic or consular representation abroad. This represents 10.6 % of all Swiss nationals and is a 1.1 % increase on 2017. Europe is where their numbers have grown the most (+1.5%), while Africa is the only continent showing a slight decline (-0.5%) compared with 2017. According to the latest “Statistics on the Swiss Abroad” of the Federal Statistical Office (FSO), 567,800 Swiss Abroad (74.7%) also have at least one other nationality alongside their Swiss nationality.

Retiring abroad

Some 21 % of Swiss Abroad (162,500 people) are aged 65 or over. This age group accounts for over 25 % of Swiss Abroad in some countries including Hungary (55%), Thailand (33%), Spain (32%), Portugal (28%) and South Africa (27%).

The gender ratio among older members of the Swiss community is balanced in Hungary, Portugal and South Africa, but tilted in favour of men in Thailand (26% compared to 7% women in the same age group) and women in Spain (20% compared to 12% men in the same age group).

People aged 80 or older make up 6% of all Swiss Abroad (45,700 people). The largest proportion of Swiss Abroad aged 80 or older live in the USA (8%) – followed by Italy, Canada and the UK (7% each). Women outnumber men in this age group in the above-mentioned countries of residence. Further information and relevant publications:

THE SWISS ABROAD ON INSTAGRAM

"Being Swiss is an essential part of my identity"

Even as a child, François Schwalb, who was born in South Africa, was interested in his father's homeland. Today the 30-year-old, who works in the fruit and vegetable industry, lives with his family and numerous animals.

My job: I'm a qualified minister in the Dutch Reformed Church where I work part time. Full-time I work as a marketer and logistics coordinator within the fresh produce industry. We also export fruit to Europe, including avocados.

My South Africa: For the past five years we've been living in Mooketsi, Limpopo province. Interesting fact: in Limpopo less than 3 % of the population is of European descent. We live on a farm with open spaces and freedom, and we love to cycle and walk every day after work with the dogs. Life is exciting and diverse with daily surprises.

My Switzerland: We lived in Switzerland when I was 7–9 years old. We also visited in 2008 and again in 2018. It is very organised, clean, wealthy, respects tradition and is a leader in innovation and technology. I like the organised lifestyle, public transport, drinkable water almost anywhere, its rich history and its bright and secure future.

My heart: Being Swiss is an essential part of my identity, of how I see and understand myself, my parents and siblings. I'm very interested in many aspects of the country and read up a lot on a weekly basis – and the more I read, the more I love Switzerland.
