REGIONAL NEWS

SOUTHERN AFRICA

Editorial

Dear readers,

2020 brings new opportunities and challenges for Southern Africa. The climate change-induced drought will be an ongoing issue for the region. Please read below how the Swiss Agency for Development and Cooperation supports Southern Africa in this regard and sheds light on food security and health concerns.

■ I wish you a good 2020,

SDC DEPUTY DIRECTOR & HEAD OF EASTERN & SOUTHERN AFRICA DIVISION VISIT SWISS FUNDED PROJECTS IN SOUTHERN AFRICA

Mr. Thomas Gass and Mr. Peter Bieler, the Swiss Agency for Development and Cooperation (SDC) Deputy Director and Head of the Eastern and Southern Africa Division respectively, visited South Africa and Zimbabwe and saw the positive impact Switzerland is having in the food security and health domains in Southern Africa.

In South Africa, Mr. Gass and Mr. Bieler met with the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) and SRHR Africa Trust (SAT) who are partnering the SDC in implementing various HIV/AIDS programmes.

The programmes are reducing new HIV infections and increasing adherence for those already on treatment for continuous viral suppression especially among young people (10–24 years).

So far, through support from Switzerland, more than 1 million young people are able to access youth-friendly services (HIV testing and counselling), antiretroviral therapy, treatment for sexually transmitted diseases, and contraceptives. In addition, 10 million children are currently benefitting from care and support services being implemented by SDC partners.

With Southern Africa experiencing repeated climate-change induced hazards adversely affecting more than 40 million people in the 2018/2019 season, Mr. Gass and Mr. Bieler also discussed with team members from the SADC Secretariat – the regional body representing 16 Member States on the SDC funded vulnerability assessments used to inform planning and response to ensure food, water and nutrition security.

Flagship model school in Harare

Visiting a school in Harare, Zimbabwe, where the Swiss Cooperation Office for Southern Africa is located, the delegation met with children at Blackfordby Primary who are part of a syndicate of 14 schools in the country implementing the SADC Care and Support for Teaching and Learning (CSTL) Programme.

The programme, supported by the SDC in partnership with MiET Africa, responds to barriers in schools, such as health and nutrition, HIV/AIDS and menstrual hygiene that threaten the rights of children and youth in accessing quality education.

Blackfordby Primary has become a flagship model for the regional programme with a sprawling garden, greenhouse and a very active School Development Committee that is working on improving the environment for children at the school.

Food security one of the priorities

Mr. Gass and Mr. Bieler also met with Zimbabwe Government officials in Masvingo Province South of Zimbabwe and farmers that are benefiting from the Rural Resilience Programme

(R4) delivered in partnership with the World Food Programme (WFP).

The R4 initiative promotes four risk management strategies, namely risk reduction (asset creation), risk transfer (weather-indexed micro-insurance), risk taking (credit) and risk reserves (savings). The programme is further implementing a climate services component due to the recurrence of drought in the region. The programme helps poor households improve their food security status and deal with climate shocks such as drought.

Given that health is a Swiss priority in Southern Africa, with SDC support in 2019 reaching up to CHF 11 million, Mr. Gass and Mr. Bieler visited the Newlands Clinic – an HIV/AIDS clinic targeting the poor and vulnerable households in Zimbabwe. The clinic is run by the Swiss based Ruedi Lüthy.

Foundation with part funding from the SDC. The Newlands Clinic provides comprehensive services and HIV medication for around 6,500 HIV patients.

At the end of the visit Mr. Gass said, "I am delighted to be in Southern Africa and have a feel of how the regional component operates. Southern Africa continues to be one of the top priorities for Switzerland in Sub-Saharan Africa. It was heart-warming to meet with beneficiaries from across the food security and health domains and to see the positive impact SDC projects continue to have on people's lives."
