III. FINANCIAL POSITION

I. BALANCE SHEET

1.1 ICRC accounts (Table Ia)

A feature of the 1969 balance sheet of the ICRC is the increase in the deficits of its "relief action" accounts. These rose from 2,163,705 francs at the end of 1968 to 6,468,054 francs at the end of 1969, i.e. an increase of 4,304,349 francs. Details of expenditure, with comparable 1968 figures, are as follows:

	Deficit
	at end of at end of 1969 1968
Action in Yemen	1,707,513.— 838,548.—
Action in Vietnam	1,299,475.— 459,862.—
Action in Middle East	2,792,775.— 865,295.—
Action in Aden	343,769.— —.—
Action in Greece	279,122.— —.—
Action for textbook	45,400.— —.—
	6,468,054.— 2,163,705.—

As a counterpart, advances granted by the Swiss Confederation rose from 1,820,000 francs at the end of 1968 to 6,340,000 francs at the end of 1969.

The lay-out of the balance sheet has been slightly modified with regard to the one for 1968; fiduciary funds, as well as sureties, have been entered separately, and are not included in the balance sheet total.

1.2 Nigeria relief action accounts (Table Ib)

Although this action constitutes an integral part of ICRC activities, it has assumed such vast proportions that a separate account of its assets and liabilities has been found to be necessary. Therefore a separate balance sheet, giving the provisional position as at 31 December 1969, is shown in Table Ib.

A second statement of the balance sheet and of the definite results of the action will be published in the course of 1970 in a special report dealing with the overall activities deployed for over 15 months by all those who had collaborated in the action co-ordinated by the ICRC.

II. STATEMENT OF EXPENDITURE AND INCOME

2.1 ICRC Regular Budget (Table IIa)

Since 1966, the ICRC has gradually modified its internal structure, especially through a marked expansion in the qualified personnel which is required for carrying out the ever more complex and numerous tasks arising from the international situation and falling upon its shoulders. Moreover, the ICRC feels obliged to be present in a permanent capacity in several areas of the third world where the development of Red Cross activities has assumed very great significance. This has been reflected in the regular budget by an increase in expenditure, which has risen from a total of 4,752,213 francs in 1966 to 6,243,438 francs in 1968 and 7,009,101 francs in 1969. This represents a rise of 12 per cent for the year 1969 as compared with the preceding year.

The numerous resolutions adopted by the XXIst International Conference of the Red Cross, held at Istanbul in September 1969, have still further increased the tasks of the ICRC, whose 1970 budget includes expenses totalling 7,672,000 francs.

It is essential that Governments should continue to be ever more attentive to the problem of regular financial contributions to the ICRC, by contributing amounts in proportion to the effort demanded. In this connection, Resolution VIII of the last International Conference at Istanbul:

"appeals urgently to all Governments signatories to the Geneva Conventions to increase considerably their regular financial contribution to the ICRC so that in 1970 total contributions will be double the amount contributed in 1969...

"asks each Government and National Society which has so far not joined in this common effort to do so by contributing substantially from 1970 onwards."

In 1969, Government contributions received by the ICRC did not reach the level attained in 1968, which included 158,910 francs of contributions in respect of 1967. The real increase in Government contribution for 1969 amounts to 26,866 francs, equal to a percentage increase of 0.63 while National Society contributions rose by 4.55 per cent. If these rates are compared to the rate of expansion in ICRC activities which is certainly not less than 10 per cent, then the effort that must be exerted in 1970 emerges very clearly.

On the other hand, thanks to measures that were taken relative to financial management which coincided fortunately with a larger amount of working capital as well as with higher short-term interest rates, income rose from 335,339 francs in 1968 to 557,564 francs in 1969, thus giving rise to a supplementary flow of income which was as welcome as it was unexpected. But, such a situation cannot be expected to recur every year and it cannot be taken into consideration to any extent when making estimates for future income.

2.2. Relief Action in Nigeria (Table IIb)

Pending the publication of the definite figures relative to this action, we have thought that it might be useful to set out known figures for expenditure and income, as at the end of 1969, and, parallel with them, those for 1968.

These figures are solely in respect of the financial cost of the action co-ordinated by the ICRC, and do not include the value of gifts in kind, services rendered by personnel, and material assistance supplied free of charge by Governments, National Red Cross Societies and other institutions, and which amount, according to a preliminary estimate, to a total of over 350 million francs for the whole period of the relief operation.

A statistical study is being undertaken, in collaboration with all contributors, in order to determine the exact value of donated goods and services. Results will be published during the second half of 1970.

2.3. Other relief actions (Table IIc)

Expenditure and income appearing in the regular budget represent only a part of the activities carried out during the year under review. There should be added, to these figures, expenditure and income relative to relief actions, or special actions such as that for the textbook, which are financed either by extraordinary contributions and sums allocated to them by the ICRC from the Relief Action Fund whose source of income is the annual public collection in Switzerland, or by allocations made from income derived from the Benedict Fund, named after its testator, Mrs. Clare R. Benedict.

The main financial support for these relief actions is provided by the advances granted to the ICRC by the Swiss Confederation to enable it to meet its obligations. Out of a total credit of 10 million francs, granted in March 1968, the ICRC had utilized, up to the end of 1969, a sum of 6,340,000 francs for relief action in Yemen, Vietnam, the Middle East, Greece and Aden, and for the textbook campaign. In addition, the sum of 3,160,000 francs had been kept in reserve during 1969 for action in Nigeria and will be utilized in 1970 for those other relief actions mentioned above.

III. OTHER ACCOUNTS

Tables IV and V concern the Special Funds managed by the ICRC; their expenditure and income do not call for any special comments.
