Exhibitions

The second World Telecommunications Exhibition, Telecom 75, which was held in Geneva from 2 to 6 October, gave the ICRC a chance to show the public how it maintains radio contact between headquarters in Geneva and the delegates in the field. During the hours that the exhibition was open, all ICRC radio traffic came through the ICRC stand at the Telecom 75. This attraction was supplemented by a triple-screen film showing the importance of radio communications to ICRC operations and giving a summarized history of the ICRC Telecommunications Service (see p. 29).

The ICRC also played a more modest role in the Zurich, Boston, Montreal and Paris exhibitions (the last-mentioned being an exhibition on the Red Cross organised by the French Red Cross at French Broadcasting House).

VII. PERSONNEL

Despite the escalation of fighting in 1975, there was a slight reduction in ICRC personnel—not counting persons whose services were loaned by National Societies—as shown by the following figures:

		1975	(1974)
— headquarters	employees	238	(227)
— in the field	delegates	85	(126)
— total		323	(353)
— local staff		130	(220)

The reduction of staff in the field is accounted for mainly by the cutback from 45 to 3 in Cyprus as well as in Southeast Asia (activity in Cambodia ceased at the end of April) and in Latin America (with the reduction in relief work in Chile).

The fighting in Angola caused the figure for Africa to rise during 1975 from 5 to 25 delegates, not including scores of doctors, surgeons and nurses made available by the National Societies of Denmark, France, Great Britain, Sweden and Switzerland, for work in Angola.

Delegations: many applications

During 1975, there were more than 500 applications to become ICRC delegate, as compared with 360 in 1974. The economic recession probably contributed to this reawakening of interest in humanitarian work.

Of the 521 applications received, 129 came from non-Swiss who could not be considered as possible delegates. These applicants were advised to apply to their own National Societies.

Of the 392 Swiss applicants considered, 86 were accepted and 306 (78%) rejected.

Training course: 98 participants

The introductory course to initiate applicants into the function of a delegate, after which the final selection is made, was held in four sessions at the Conference Centre at Cartigny (Geneva). It was attended by 98 persons (of whom 17 were women) composed of applicants who had survived the preselection and some ICRC employees. Thirteen persons came from the ICRC Group for International Missions (GMI). The GMI, set up in Berne in 1962, is responsible for recruiting specialized staff to fill technical posts, doctors, radio operators, drivers, etc., who agree to accept missions of at least two months over a period of two years.

Personnel on mission

During the year, 179 posts in the field were filled or renewed, as follows:

- 11 heads of delegation
- 5 regional delegates
- 44 delegates
- 39 doctors, including 19 supplied by National Societies
- 11 agency delegates
- 7 administrators
- 29 male and female nurses, 21 from National Societies
- 5 secretaries
- 14 radio operators
- 14 technicians, including 7 from National Societies.

VIII. FINANCE

Fund-Raising

During 1975, the fund-raising delegate approached many governments to try to obtain either a considerable increase in existing contributions or regular contributions from governments which had not hitherto paid any.

These approaches formed part of an overall plan decided on by the Committee in 1972, the object of which is to obtain from the governments which have acceded to the Geneva Conventions regular annual contributions totalling 7.5 million Swiss francs so that the permanent structure of the ICRC may be financed half by the Swiss Confederation and half by other governments.

Although contributions are voluntary, they do nonetheless derive from Resolution XI of the 1949 Diplomatic Conference, which we quote below:

Whereas the Geneva Conventions require the International Committee of the Red Cross to be ready at all times and in all circumstances to fulfil the humanitarian tasks entrusted to it by these Conventions, the Conference recognizes the necessity of providing regular financial support for the International Committee of the Red Cross.

For the ICRC, the duty to stand ready becomes more imperative each year in view of the growing tension in the modern world.

It is therefore most important that governments adapt their contributions to the requirements of the times. As can be seen from Table II, total regular contributions from States parties to the Geneva Conventions (excluding Switzerland) came only to Sfr. 3,543,450 in 1975.

In round figures, this falls Sfr. 4 million short of the target set by the Committee in 1972.

The approaches so far made to the United States Government by the fund-raising delegate have met with obvious success—the US annual contribution is now US$ 500,000 as against the US$ 50,000 allocated until the end of 1973.

Pressing approaches have been made to the Scandinavian countries, the Netherlands and the Arab States, but by the end of 1975 the outcome was still unknown. In addition, overtures have been made to several governments, either through their Permanent Missions to the International Organisations in Geneva or by personal contact on the occasion of visits by the President of the ICRC to the highest dignitaries of State.

National Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies have also been asked to support the ICRC in its approaches to their governments and have, at the same time, been encouraged to increase their own financial contributions to the ICRC.

In this connection, let us recall that according to Resolutions adopted by Red Cross Conferences, National Society contributions to the permanent financing of the ICRC should be 50% of the scale set by the League for the contributions of its members.

Finally, mention should be made of the drive started in 1974 and intensively continued into 1975, to obtain funds from some of the largest American foundations. This is a new programme for the ICRC and the first tangible results appeared at the end of 1975, but its true worth will not be apparent for another three to five years.

In brief, fund-raising is a very important part of ICRC general policy. Its results will determine the future readiness of the ICRC "at all times and in all circumstances" and its ability to be present wherever the protection or assistance of victims requires.

1975 Results

Introduction

The appreciable expansion of operational activities was bound to affect the ICRC's ordinary budget (both permanent and temporary), even though specific actions were, as usual, financed by an ad hoc budget (occasional structure).

Nevertheless, despite this development, which could not be foreseen when the 1975 budget was prepared, the accounts for 1975 were closed with expenses greater than those for 1974 but less than the amount originally estimated. The deficit, which had been estimated at the beginning of the year at 1.99 million Swiss francs, was revised in mid-year to 2.2 million, and was finally reduced to 190,000 Swiss francs.

The ICRC's "turnover" for 1975—if such a term may be employed for a humanitarian organization—amounted to about 100 million Swiss francs, divided as follows:

		million fr
(a) operational and logistic expenses
— ordinary budget (permanent and temporary structures) .....	21.3
— actions supported by ad hoc financing (occasional structure) .....	12.1	33.4
(b) relief expenses
— supplies purchased and delivered by the ICRC .....	4.0
— food donated by the EEC and Swiss Confederation and delivered by the ICRC .....	25.3	29.3
subtotal for actions carried out by the ICRC alone .....	62.7
(c) joint ICRC-League action in Indo-China		39.7
Total .....	102.4

Expenditure and income, by departments and structures, and comparison with preceding years (Tables II and III)

A preliminary observation should be made: the totals of the expenditure and income columns of the occasional structure (12.1 million Swiss francs) do not include the special Indo-China action, on which a sum of nearly 40 million Swiss francs was spent in 1975. This has been a joint League-ICRC operation; its accounts are kept separate from those of the ICRC and are closed each year on 31 March. They will be published in the International Review of the Red Cross after approval by the League-ICRC co-ordinating body.

On the receipts side, there were increases in regular contributions from governments and a substantial expansion of "free donations and legacies". Allocations to the ordinary budget from the occasional structure (contributions from governments, National Societies and others for financing specific actions) amounted to 1.07 million Swiss francs.

With regard to government contributions to the ordinary budget, it should be noted that payments by the Swiss Confederation accounted for 12.5 million Swiss francs (a regular contribution of 7.5 million and a supplementary contribution of 5 million Swiss francs) out of total income of 21.4 million Swiss francs.

The amount of 5,905,749 francs in contributions to the temporary structure includes the supplementary contribution of 5 million francs received in 1975 and the balance of 905,749 francs carried forward from 1974 (see Annual Report for 1974, p. 96).

Expenditure by branches of activity (Table IV)

An innovation in this year's accounts is Table IV, "Budget for Expenditure by Branches of Activity". It is a first step towards an attempt to give a clearer view of the actual costs of each branch of activity, and its examination leads to some interesting conclusions.

For instance, the ICRC's activities under the Geneva Conventions (protection and assistance, and its activities in the sphere of law) cost 9.39 million Swiss francs and constituted 45 per cent of its 1975 expenditure, while activities other than those under the Conventions (consisting mainly of aid to political detainees) amounted only to 11 per cent.

Activities ascribed to management accounted for a considerable proportion of 1975 expenditure, 6 million francs or 29%. It should be noted that costs under this heading refer to all the management activities of the ICRC, including those it carried out alone or jointly with the League for actions financed ad hoc by the occasional structure.

In comparison with the total volume of ICRC activity, in terms of the concept of "turnover" described earlier, management expenses constituted only 6% of the total.

Expenditure under the heading "Information and public relations" included not only the costs of the Press and Information Division but also all the liaison activities of the Division of National Societies and the delegate to international organizations.

Finally, we should make it clear that the expenditure under "Assembly and Executive Board" consists almost entirely of the cost of preparatory work for the Third Session of the Diplomatic Conference on the Reaffirmation and Development of Humanitarian Law. These expenses are additional to those relating to the Geneva Conventions under the heading "Affirmation and development of humanitarian law."

Special actions financed ad hoc

We have seen above that the occasional structure refers to special actions for which ad hoc funds have been raised from governments, National Societies and various bodies.

Table VII shows the amounts received for new operations (Angola, Lebanon, Timor) and for continuing operations begun before 1975 (Chile, Cyprus, Inpak, Iraqi Kurdistan, Middle East, Rwanda). It also includes contributions towards the Lucerne and Lugano Conferences of Experts on Weapons.

The table shows that without the balance brought forward from 1974 (5.76 million), there would have been a deficit of about 2 million francs in 1975. With that initial balance, the total carried forward at the end of 1975 amounted to 3.7 million Swiss francs, the largest figures being for Angola (reduced activities at the end of 1975) and Timor (activities suspended on 6 December).

As already mentioned, these figures do not include any expenditure for the special action in Indo-China.

For details on contributions to the occasional structure, see Table VIII.

Special fund for current operations (Table IX)

Swiss francs

This fund had the following resources:

— balance at the end of 1974 . . . . .	811,719
— commitments carried fwd. . . . .	1,698,746
	2,510,465
— various donations and allocations . . . . .	1,800,000
— results of collection campaign among the Swiss people . . . . .	618,255
Total . . . . .	4,928,720

The fund thus had a total of 4,928,720 francs available to finance relief activities during 1975.

Of this amount, 3.7 million francs was spent or committed for relief activities connected with continuing operations in the field. Together with special allocations for activities in Chile and Angola and a transfer to the brief Iraqi Kurdistan action, expenditure totalled, in round figures, 4 million francs, leaving a balance of 862,977 francs as at 31 December.

The termination of these special operations does not coincide with the annual closing of the books of the ICRC. Substantial sums are therefore carried forward each year. These amounts represent the difference between the contributions available at the beginning of the operation and the expenses budgeted at that time.

Swiss public collection campaign

The whole proceeds of this campaign, 618,255 francs (Table IX, 2.1) were allocated to the Special fund for current operations.

As in previous years, the cost of organizing this collection was provided for in the ordinary budget as part of the permanent structure (Table II, first column).

Analysis of balance sheet (Table I)

The balance sheet as at 31 December 1975 has few substantial changes in comparison with that for 1974. We draw attention however to two headings: Cash, which shows a large increase, and Funds in trust, with a large decrease.

The reasons for these two changes were as follows:

— Cash

At the end of the year, the ICRC received major donations for special actions, Angola in particular, for which short-term investments could not be made before 31 December.

— Trust funds

The establishment at the beginning of 1975 of the Fonds Français Maurice de Madre as an independent foundation was attended by a reduction in the funds held in trust by the ICRC. The Fonds Français Maurice de Madre is managed by a Council consisting of representatives of the ICRC and the League. Its accounts will be published by the International Review of the Red Cross after their approval by the Council.
