There is solidarity too, in Switzerland's policy of international co-operation within the limits of her own neutrality. Industrial fairs take place regularly in Basle, Lausanne, Lugano and St. Gall. In Geneva, former home of the League of Nations, you may find today, a United Nations' session in full swing, or an international trade or labor forum. There is a steady program of music, art and cultural events throughout the country, all with an international flavour.

The democratic Swiss, no less nationalistic than any people, feel that peace can be built only on a firm foundation of mutual understanding, commerce and an exchange and distillation of viewpoints. Their efforts along these lines may well be an historic mission.
