SWISS SOCIETY OF NEW ZEALAND
President's Report, 1958

Dear Compatriots,

On the end of every year one is looking back and is having a review of the successes and failures of the past year. On the success ledger we can record two outstanding events: The formation of a Swiss Club in Wellington as a branch of our Society and of equal importance is the joining of the Auckland Club as a branch also. I must not miss expressing, in this place, my highest admiration and sincerest thanks to all those who helped to bring about this important step forward. On the bad side of the ledger, however, we have lost some valued members who have passed away, amongst them a worthy foundation member, Mr. John Steiner from Auckland. As far as helping needy cases of Swiss people we were very lucky, we had to assist an old friend to a minor extent only.

Referring to the improved financial position of the Society, this is no doubt to be credited to our retiring Treasurer, Mr. A. Loetscher. It was he who tackled the situation in a business-like manner and achieved very worthwhile results. To the Secretary, Mr. A. Biland, must go the credit for the successful re-organisation of the Helvetia. I must bow to his outstanding abilities. To the rest of the committee I wish to express my thanks for the willing co-operation and help whenever I wanted it.

Looking into the future I sincerely hope that in due time every Swiss in New Zealand belongs to our Society: "A United Folk of Brethren," using Schillers words. For the future tasks of the Society I have given it a lot of thought during the last few months and I came to the conclusion that, provided we can raise the money, that our own old people's home, coupled perhaps with a home for short periods for new arrivals would be a fitting monument to our aims.

—Walter Risi, President Swiss Society.

Corrections . . .

In last month's issue we forgot to mention the name of the writer who sent the report of the annual meeting of the Auckland Swiss Club. It was Charley Ding.
