FRIENDSHIP

and

FELLOWSHIP

Friend is one to whom one may pour out all the contents of one's heart, chaff and grain together knowing that the gentlest of hands will take and sift it, keep what is worth keeping and with the breath of kindness blow the rest away.

Blessed be friendship and fellowship of human creatures, because with them Spring seems to us more beautiful; without them, all is sadness and pain.

In the pleasure of service, hope nestles, and in the pleasure of giving, the satisfaction of living. But in giving unselfishly, without hurting and underrating, covered with the aureola of St. Francis of Assisi; with fraternal and sincere words, like Horace says: "The power of words and harmony of sound mitigate pain and lessen evils," the intimate satisfaction of the reward to our actions will be written in the same actions.—From the Rotarian.
