Attractive Rigi Summer

The Rigi, the 5,900 ft. mountain near Lucerne and an excursion goal for tourists from all over the world, has a few innovations in store for the coming summer season. The Hotels Bellevue and Bergsonne have installed baths or showers in all rooms. The Tourist Office has taken on a new look. There's also a new bus service from Vitznau/Weggis, the bus tickets being valid for use on the vessels of the SGV Company. A dozen installations for frying food over an open fire have been provided for holiday guests and day visitors, as well as 80 new benches for them to get the weight off their feet. From May to September there are trips to see the famous Rigi sunset. They start at 4 p.m. from Vitznau or Weggis and participants can return until 9.30 p.m. Also available is a farmer's supper of overnight accommodation on the Rigi Kulm. Enormously popular among young and old alike are the trips on the Rigi by trains hauled by old steam locomotives from the nineteen-thirties.
