HAPPY HELPERS

Being part of the Helvetia editorial team may mean a lot of work for those who 'volunteered' to do the job, but it is also an honour and others recognise the work that is put into the magazine.

We also have the added bonus of seeing our words in print, which is very exciting as well. But there are many others at the Taranaki Swiss Club who have started helping the main contributors. Without these helpful individuals nobody would get their Helvetia magazine.

That's right, I'm talking about taken on the rather unglamorous task of stapling, folding and sending out our Swiss Society publication each month.

As a tribute to the many hours of tediously similar work that is in store for them over the next five years, I would like to publicly thank them in advance on behalf of all Helvetia readers.

Just as a matter of interest, during the next five years we will be producing 50 Helvetia issues, with over 500 being sent out each time. That is a lot of stapling and folding.

Good luck!
