ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This book was written as a doctoral thesis, submitted to the University of Oxford in 1976, though ideas for it go back as far as 1963. Many people helped me during the writing. Hilde Schoeck, the composer's widow, took an interest in the project and gave me much encouragement. Werner Vogel, the Schoeck scholar, answered many questions and provided bibliographical information. The late Franz Kienberger, sometime President of the Othmar Schoeck Gesellschaft, supplied certain scores not otherwise obtainable. Further information came from the Swiss Embassy in London, the Zentralbibliothek Zurich, the Öffentliche Bibliothek der Universität Basel, the Konzertverein der Stadt St. Gallen, and the Association des musiciens suisses. To all these individuals and institutions I am deeply grateful.

My two Oxford supervisors, Joseph Kerman and Frederick Sternfeld, deserve special thanks for their patience, criticism and advice. Robin Holloway gave me so many ideas I no longer remember which are mine and which are his. I must also thank Alfred Clayton, for his help with translations; Margaret Frost and Helen Roe, for preparing the music examples; Dorothy Baker, Jane Leslie and Susan Neve, for typing and retyping the manuscript; and Kenneth Brecher, Alan Davies and Diane Hoar, for practical help of a kind which goes beyond brief description. Thanks are also due to the President and Fellows of Wolfson College, Oxford, where most of the work was done.

The book is published by means of financial assistance from the Pro Helvetia Foundation (Zurich), the Schweizerische Musikforschende Gesellschaft (Basle) and the Othmar Schoeck Gesellschaft (Berne). I warmly thank these institutions for their support. I wish also to thank Jürg Stenzl and Hans Jürg Lüthi for their help in getting the book published. Most of all, however, thanks are due to my parents for their unending support and encouragement.
