âme, le christianisme la lui donnera. âme, le christianisme la fui donnera. Je veux évoquer ici les saints nationaux qui, de saint Maurice et de ses compagnons martyrs, jusqu'au bienheureux Nicolas de Flue, patron de la Suisse, ont vu, de leur éternité, leur culte se répandre partout; je veux également parler de l'action civilisatrice exercée sur le pays entier de Charlemagne, par des monastères comme celui de St. Gall. Entire de l'action de se surfout une sur fin, la Suisse, comme telle, est surtout une sur-vivance du Saint-Empire germanique et romain. Les paysans libres de la Suisse primitive, cette aristocratie montagnards, ne relevaient que des empereurs. Pas besoin de légende pour expliquer empereurs. Pas oeson de legende pour expliquer la naissance politique de la Suisse: sa date est l'ouverture au trafic du Saint-Gothard, le seul passage avec Brenner, qui reliât directement l'Italie et la Germanie, ces deux moitiés de l'Em-

Ainsi, notre civilisation est composite, com-Allsi, notre elvinsactor est composite, com-plète. Nous avons beaucoup moins créé, qu'a-dapté, assimilé. Là où cette civilisation est la plus originale, comme à Berne, à Fribourg, dans la région du Saint-Gothard, dans les Grisons, on pourrait lui appliquer cette définition que le philo-logue Ascoli donne de la langue gréco-romaine : forme latine et matière tudesque. Elle est l'image logue Ascoli donne de la langue gréco-romaine: forme latine et matière tudesque. Elle est l'image de notre terre et de notre peuple. Genève est purement latine, française avec des influences italiennes; à l'autre bout du pays, Schaffhouse est purement allemande du Haut-Rhin; mais on passe de Genève à Schaffhouse par des gradations et des transformations lentes, successives. Là est le charme, la saveur des œuvres suisses.

Nous demeurons des traditionalistes, des conservateurs. Notre génie est populaire avec des éléments aristocratiques; nos élites, de naissance ou de culture, n'ont jamais perdu contact avec le peuple. Nos plus grands esprits vivent d'une vie concentrée: la personne est le centre, puis la famille, puis le canton, qui est chez nous la patrie, puis la Suisse, puis enfin l'Europe. Nous devons à notre histoire d'avoir naturellement le sens de l'Europe, de joindre le particularisme à l'universalité. Ce petit pays ne cesse de produire et dans tous les domaines de la vie, vie économique ou vie militaire, vie d'aventure ou vie de la pensée, des tempéraments qu'il est tropétroit pour contenir, qui brisent les cercles, mais qui finissent par revenir au centre.

C'est ainsi qu'un type d'humanité, un idéal humain se dégage de notre terre et de notre histoire. Entre l'individualisme te l'étatisme, nous affirmons l'autonomie des intermédiaires: la famille, la cité, les associations de toutes sortes. Par là, nous avons maintenu et modernisé la manière primitive et naturelle de vivre. Nous op-mille, la cité, les associations de toutes sortes. Par là, nous avons maintenu et modernisé la manière primitive et naturelle de vivre. Nous opposons à l'unitarisme, le complexe, cette condition même de l'unité. Nous prouvons que des hommes de race, de langue, de religions différentes, ailleurs hostiles, peuvent vivre ensemble et que leur terre et leur histoire ont formé une nation. Nous sommes, comme l'écrivait Samuel Cornut, une petite Europe réconciliée avec elle-même, et, comme l'écrivait Robert de Traz, une affirmation de la volonté humaine contre toutes les formes de fatalisme, une victoire de l'homme sur l'homme. C'est par là que nous avons notre raison d'être, et cette raison est l'esprit.

NEWS FROM THE COLONY.

CITY SWISS CLUB.

The monthly meeting, preceded by dinner, of the City Swiss Club took place on Tuesday last, at Pagani's Restaurant, Great Portland Street, W., and was attended by about fifty members and guests; amongst the latter was Mr. A. E. Tschiffely, author of the book, "Southern Cross to Pole Star," and Mr. A. Steinmann, President of the Swiss Mercantile Society. Mr. Tschiffely made a very interesting after-dinner speech which was much appreciated.

After various speeches, the ordinary business of the meeting was quickly despatched by the President, M. H. Senn. Two resignations were announced and accepted; no admission. — "Tir Fédéral": a contribution of five guineas was voted from the funds as a donation towards the "Gaben Fund." The meeting also agreed in principle to again hold a First of August celebration this year. Close of the meeting, ten o'clock.

SWISS CLUB, BIRMINGHAM.

For one reason or another, our sister societies in the provinces make but little use of the official paper of the Swiss Colony in Great Britain; a fact which is all the more to be regretted, as we have on numerous occasions tried to encourage them by asking for reports of their doings.

It is hardly our fault, if many of our London Swiss are quite unaware that there are several Swiss Societies in existence throughout the country. Why all this shyness? Are they afraid that they will get bullied by their bigger Brethren in the Metropolis?

A much appreciated exception is the Swiss Club, Birmingham, an institution which periodically informs us of its activities. We have before us a circular which addresses itself to all Swiss, whether residing in Birmingham, or "vicinity."

We need hardly beat the drums for our friends at Birmingham; they are known as a stronghold of Swiss patriotism and solidarity in the provinces, and at the head of this small, but enterprising Society is our friend, M. P. Brun,

The dinner and dance which has been arranged to take place on Saturday, March 17th, at the Midland Hotel in Birmingham, promises to become a most enjoyable event, and we are assured that no pains have been spared in order to make this function a great success.

this function a great success.

The term "Swiss Rally" is used in the appeal, and we hope that many of our London Swiss, especially those who are owners of cars, will on Saturday, the 17th, drive down (or is it up?) to Birmingham, to spend a few happy hours with our compatriots in the Midlands; we are convinced that they will not regret it.

To Birmingham on the 17th.

PERSONAL.

We extend hearty congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. P. Bessire on the arrival of a little baby daughter, Anna-Marie.

LUCULLUS LODGE. Ladies' Festival.

The Lucullus Lodge, which comprises amongst its members a large contingent of our countrymen, held its Ladies' Festival on Wednesday, February 28th at the First Avenue Res, taurant, London, W.C.1, Mr. G. Wyss being in the chair

The function was preceded by a reception held by the President, who was ably assisted by his charming wife. During the dinner an attrac-tive programme of music was played by the Billy Davies Band. The menu cards, bound with a blue ribbon, formed a very pretty table decoration, the front page showing the colours of the Canton of Aargau, which was meant as a compliment to the Chairman, who halls from these quarters.

The Lodge, I assume, takes its name from that famous Roman General Lucullus, who was not only a great warrior, but an equally celebrated gournet. This illustrious person, when once served with a mediocre meal, turned with disgust to his attendant, exclaiming: "Ne savais-tu pas que Lucullus soupait chez Lucullus?"

Well, this time Lucullus dined at the First Avenue Restaurant, and the menu was compiled

Avenue Restaurant, and the menu was compiled by a famous cheff, who is not only a member of the Lodge, but also one of our compatriots, namely, Mr. A. Indermaur. I feel almost tempted to give the full contents of the bill-of-fare, but space and a kindly feeling towards those who were not able to be present, prevent me from doing so. All I will say is that it was a "princely" feast, and I am convinced even Lucullus himself would have enjoyed it.

The speeches were short. I especially enjoyed the one by the President, Mr. Wyss, who most feelingly dwelt on the happy relationship between the English and the Swiss members of between the English and the Swiss members of the Lodge. Mr. J. Presnail eulogized with a very witty speech the Ladies, and his charming wife shortly and adequately replied to this toast. The toast to the President was proposed by Mr. C. L. Smith, and was heartily responded to. Mr. Stod-don, amid great applause, presented to Mrs. Wyss, on behalf of the members of the Lodge, a diamond bracelet as "a slight compensation for diamond bracelet as "a sight compensation for the absence of her husband from home on so many occasions, and as a token of the great esteem in which she is held." I thought this idea a very fine one, and I only wish that some of my friends, who at times keep me out late, would follow their

During the evening an entertainment was provided by Miss Bertha Willmott, who insisted on enticing all the gentlemen present into some dark valley, and if it had not been for their spouses being present, they would have "succumbed." Miss Folly Bask, who was as pretty "sweetest things," and all the men gazed at her in ecstacy, but when she suddenly burst into yod-ling and to intone that well-known Swiss song, "Nine geit's so schön u lustig," she absolutely brought the "house down," because it awakened amongst the Swiss members many sweet remembrances, and yodling seems to be always a source of amusement to our English friends. Argo, with his mimics and funny noises, was most entertaining.

I understand that the greater part of the arrangements for this festival was in the capable hands of Mr. Edwards, and he is to be complimented for the excellent way in which he fulfilled his duties; everything went off without a hitch.

Dancing then followed, to the accompaniment of Billy Davies and his Pasadena Boys Bands, until the hour of 2.30 a.m. brought the Festival, which was attended by about 200 members and guests, to a close. It was truly a most enjoyable evening, and the Lucullus Lodge may be heartily congratulated on the success of this Ladles' Festival. Ladies' Festival.

WILHELM WIDLER.+

We deeply regret to inform our readers of the death of Mr. Wilhelm Widler, huissier at the Swiss Legation, 18, Montagu Place, W.1, which occurred on Wednesday last.

Wilhelm Widler was born on the 13th of January, 1890, and was a native of Ottenbach (Ct. Zurich); he married Anna Widler; nee Schwaninger, and there are two children; one boy, Richard, born in 1921, and a girl, Marries and the state of the garet-Anna, born in 1924.

garet-Anna, born in 1924.

Mr. Widler, who unfortunately lost his life in connection with a lift accident at the Legation, entered during the war into the service of our former Minister, Dr. Carlin, as a servant, and in 1920 was appointed huissier (Weibel). In this position he showed great capabilities, and a good all-round schooling which he enjoyed in his youth was a great help to him; he spoke fluent German, French and English. Widler was furthermore a clever mechanic, which, unfortunately, as he was using the lift in a different and unautho was using the lift in a different and unauthorised way, has cost him his life. He was also a handy cabinet maker, and several pieces at the Legation give proof of his great skill.

The Legation loses in Wilhelm Widler a conscientious and loyal servant, who has well attended to his duties. He was of a quiet and reserved disposition, and his shyness was often taken for a kind of roughness; but those who came in daily contact with him
could make allowance for this particulanity.
Widler was at all times civil and obliging.
We tender to his wife and family our deepest sympathy in their tragic loss. Might

ARTHUR HONEGGER. BY W. TAPPOLET. Hug: Zurich (in German).

The story told in this book makes it clear that Honegger is a composer to whom opportunities and repute came early. He received his first comand repute came early. He received his first commission in 1918, at the age of twenty-six—it was to write incidental music to Paul Méral's play, "Le Dit des Jeux du Monde," and this music created a scandal which witnesses described as created a scandal which witnesses described as a repetition on a smaller scale of that caused by Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring"—and in 1921 another two; from the Swedish Ballets for "Skattng Rink," and from Switzerland for "Le Roi David," a work which created a great impression. By the time he was thirty his output was fairly considerable, and also fairly well-known. Shortly afterwards, "Horace Victoricux" and "Pacific 231" attracted considerable notice. He has been a subject of heated disable notice. He has been a subject of heated diswelcome. All this may help to account for Mr. Tappolet's unhesitatingly proclaiming that "all that Stravinsky signifies for Europe, and Hindemith for the music of Germanic countries, is summed up no less strikingly in Honegger." But to indulge in sweeping assertions of this kind is danindulge in sweeping assertions of this kind is dangerous. How many readers will agree with this other one, that the oratorio "The Cries of the World "is "a most powerful artistic expression of our time"? Probably very few in this country, where that work, recently broadcast, was almost unanimously found very disappointing. More generally, there is evidence enough that many judges whom one has every reason to suppose unprejudiced find that Honegger's music, despite its theoretical merits, often lacks the power to convince—very much like Hindemith's and probably for the same reasons: because he is (as probably for the same reasons: because he is (as pointed out by the Italian critics, Pannain, in a capital essay) too exclusively a technician, and a composer whose technical efficiency is not matched by his experience of, or interest in, life. He may be praised for his classical affinities, his sence of structure, his capacity for working according to plan; but he does not always succeed in imparting to his music the power to hold together. It often to his music the power to hold together. It often seems to have been composed bit by bit, each bit for its own sake. It remains, to borrow a simile from one of Kipling's titles, like a ship that has not found herself.

Mr. Tappolet, although shirking, in principle, none of the difficulties that the task of devoting a book to a composer still very much under discussion implies, did not attempt to focus his subjectmatter from a variety of angles. He is not concerned with weighing or confuting the unfavourable criticisms that have been levelled at Honegger's music. As a rule, he is not so fulsome in his praise as the quotations given above might suggest. All in all, his book is simply an introduction to Honegger and his works—the only kind of thing that a book coming at so early a stage can properly be, although in this instance very thorough analyses of the composer's works suggest more positive ambitions and a rather wider scope.

SCHLITTEFAHRT.

Hansjoggi spann der Schlitte i Mir machet hüt a Chehr, Wei wieder einisch lustig si Bim Bärewirt im Pleer. Chum nume, Ruedi, s'het Platz für drü, We me chli z'äme hockt, Di angere, sitzet vis à vis U eine uf em Bock. U eine uf em Bock. —
Gnietig fö d'Ross d'stampfe a
U rüttle d'Schälle fest
So gärn si möchtet afa ga
Münd's warte uf der Letscht. —
So jetz geit's los, näht's hübscheli,
Dr. Schnee isch hert u glatt
U d'Sunne lachet drüber i Us blane Himmelspracht.
Us blauer Himmelspracht.
So, lähnet zrügg, u dänkt ech gross,
Dir müesst ech doch, rächt meine,
Grossartig fahre mir dürs Dorf
So g'schwulle, gits gwüss keine.

Spielt eine Handharmonika,
Wie mes i alter Zyt het gmacht.
Ueberall hets tüfe Schnee
Mit Diamantleni glizerig,
Drunter cham me Steirösli gseh
Die güggelet, ob's bald Frühlig sig.
Dür dunkel-grüni Tannewälder
Gseh d'Bärge gwaltig prächtig dri,
Grad näbem Wäg, dür Schnee u Felse,
Zwängt Wasser, wo möcht d's Bächli si.
Dringset um isch hehre Friede,
Mi füehlt die gross Unentlichkeit.
Der Mönsch isch doch so chil do nide,
So äng u voll Uzfriedeheit. Der Mönsch isch doch so chli do nide, So äng u voll Uzfriedeheit. Jez geits fest obsig, s'grust mer fascht, Nur no a Rank, dert g'seht er d's Hus, D'Ross dämpfe, vo der schwäre Lascht, Do si mer, so iez stieget us. Vo witem schmöckt me scho im Gang, Der Brate, Chabis, Späck u Wurscht.

Hungrig si mer, wart nit lang
U bschtell par Gütterli für e Durscht —
Jez, mani aber wäger nüme
Nu no as Kaffi uf a Tisch
Es dunkt mi, i muess fasch verspringe
U hät doch no so gärn es "Kirsch."
Der Christe spielt a schöne Walzer
U alli fanget's Tanze a
Vor Thorheit schützt ja nit das Alter
We me no chly tanza cha. We me no chly tanza cha, S'isch gange bis am späte Obe Voruss, isch's chalt un voller Schnee Voruss, 18cm's chait un vond schalle Die Schlitte giret, dr. Mond luegt abe Er het doch gwüss nit alles gseh. H. E.
