ANNUAL REPORT ON THE STOCK

EXCHANGE OF ZURICH.

By Leu and Co's Bank Limited, Zurich.

Since our last stock market report a new period has begun and therefore we consider it quite adequate to review briefly the year that elapsed. 1934 began hopefully and the markets responded rather favourably under New York's enthusiasm. At the end of February, however, the general rise came to a standstill and a backward movement set in, first hardly noticeable, in later months very pronounced. Together with the falling prices the turnovers of the Swiss stock exchanges diminished and reached in August almost one half of what they were in the first few months of the year. Late however, the markets showed a disposition to overcome the unfortunate inactivity and a more cheerful undertone was prevalent.

Amongst the groups of shares that suffered most during the past year industrial shares are to be named first. Especially those of the machine and aluminium industry reflected their export difficulties. An exception made Nestlé and Anglo-Swiss Condensed Milk Co., which always enjoyed greatest activity and which reached its top-quotation last December, namely 769. Since then even higher prices were paid that are almost double of what they were in 1932 when all stocks were still at the bottom. A second group of shares that were hit hard by the politically unstable conditions and the aggravating exchange-difficulties of certain countries, were certain shares of trust-companies such as Motor-Columbus, Holding Brown Boveri, etc., while Hispano was able to recover partially from its heaviest downfall in 1933. In the field of foreign railway stocks much fluctuation was noticeable and the interest for American railroads eased off with the decline of their home-markets.

Contrary to the stock-market the bond-market showed generally more life but was subject to heavy fluctuation. The reason for it was greatly due to the insecurity of the currencies and much talk was wasted to whether the few remaining gold block countries would give up their point of view and join the number of those nations which, owing to various circumstances, found it necessary to go "off gold." For this reason the Swiss gilt-edged bonds lost ground in February already, after active trading the month before, to reach their bottom in April, from where a slow but steady rise took place which had its reason in the increasing interest of the investing public that had full confidence in the Government and the guidance of the Swiss National Bank.

Very clearly do the foreign bonds reflect the happenings in their countries. While German securities on account of the increasing transfer-difficulties dropped almost 50% of what they were worth at the beginning of 1934, the French bonds as a rule were able to make up not only what they had lost during the political and financial troubles in spring, but also to advance slightly above the early level of 1934.

Strangely unaffected remained the Austrian markets in spite of the serious political upheaval. Also Eastern European countries kept pretty steady not to forget South-American bonds that gained through an improved economic and currency situation.
