Also of note are sketerons dating back to the two Iron Ages (Hallstatt and La Tène). Moving up through the centuries we come to the period of conquering Rome, with works of the Germanic, Burgundian, Lombardian, and Frankish tribes on exhibition. All of these collections paint vivid and graphic pictures of Switzerland's earlier days. days days. The newly arranged section of Religious Art in the Middle Ages has as its oldest object an anazing 8th century mural from the Munster Con-vent in the Grisons. There are also many religious figures carved from wood, all of them ranging from the 12th to 16th centuries. The wooden altars of the later Middle-Ages are must admired, and a number of altar paintings, tapestries, em-broideries, carved chests and furniture are dis-played on the ground floor. Here, too, is the textile collection, becoming rightfully more and more valuable. more valuable.

Famous for its collection of old Swiss wea-pons, the high vaulted Hall of Arms, with murals by Ferdinand Hodler, was also improved. In this by Ferdinand Hodler, was also improved. In this huge room are the weapons, helmets, and armors used in the medieval times of Switzerland's foreign wars. Rows of spears point up to the still hanging war banners. In another room, along with collections of medals, are the uniforms used in later centuries. Wonderful specimens of the skill of medieval goldsmiths are shown in the jewel-room, and priceless heirlooms of old noble families are displayed along with fabulously valuable religious goblets, bowls and other objects of art. of art.

SWISS MERCANTILE SOCIETY LECTURE BY PROFESSOR E. ALLISON PEERS. At "Swiss House," 34/35, Fitzroy Square, on Wednesday, December 9th, 1936.

Spain is a country in which so many of our span is a country in when so have of our people are deeply interested and most anxions to know more as to what has happened and is really happening there. Professor Peers spends a con-siderable time each year in adding to his already profound knowledge of Spain and the Spaniards; so his audiences are certain to get the latest inso his audiences are certain to get the latest in-formation as gathered by an exceptionally quali-fied traveller and investigator. He was in Spain for the Revolution, which resulted in the estab-lishment of the Republic, and has frequently been an eye-witness of exciting events which have hap-pened since that time. Professor Peers is really master of the art of putting much into little space and his hearers will realise that every moment spent with him has been doubly worth while. The Civil War in Spain.

Is a vivid description of the causes, course and results of the struggle, and carrying the story down to the date of the lecture.

His narative, illustrated by fine photographic His narative, illustrated by nne photographic slides, utilises unpublished accounts of the war written for him by Spanish correspondents in Madrid, Barcelona and other parts of Spain, looks at the war from the point of view of Euro-pean politics, and gives an unrivalled picture of the most eventful civil conflict of modern times.

The Committee hopes that a great number of members of the Society will attend on Wednesday next.
