FETE SUISSE.

Pour la grande famille helvétique de Londres, juin est le mois de la fête suisse. Aux habitués ce rappel est presque superflu; aux compatriotes nouvellement arrivés au pays d'Albion, il s'agit d'esquisser ce que cette fête signifie. Or voici: chaque année à cette saison, en vertu d'une tradition vieille maintenant de 69 ans, la colonie toute entière est conviée sous un même toit pour entendre la voix du pays, pour chanter les beautés de la patrie et communier avec elle.

C'est donc jeudi 16 juin, au Central Hall, Westminster, W. qu'aura lieu la prochaine de ces grandes réunions annuelles des Suisses à Londres. Le programme que l'on a avancé cette fois-ci à 6.45h. (au lieu de 7 heures) sera précédé par le thé dès 5.30h. pour ceux qui le désirent. La clôture est prévue pour 10.30h. ce qui donnera à chacun d'amples facilités de regagner sa demeure. Et durant l'intervalle du programme, de 8 à 9h., on trouvera au vestibule le buffet habituel abondamment pourvu de quoi satisfaire tous les goûts.

Cette année plus que jamais la Suisse vient à nous le 16 juin, puisqu'elle nous envoie non seulement les fleurs aimées de nos Alpes, mais aussi des artistes distingués du pays qui interpréteront nos airs montagnards. Un programme fort intéressant vous attend, auquel contribueront bien sûr artistes et musiciens connus et dévoués de la colonie.

L'âge vénérable de cette fête en dit long de sa popularité, plus encore le total des participants qui, de sept, huit, neuf cents il y a quelques années, est passé en 1936 à près de onze cents et en 1937 à douze cents. Il y a la de place pour tout le monde. Aussi, vous tous qui voulez vous retremper quelques heures durant dans l'atmosphère de "chez nous," venez au Central Hall, Westminster, jeudi 16 juin. Si vous n'avez pu vous procurer un billet à l'avance, vous en trouverez à la caisse le soir même au prix modeste de sh. 1/6.

FEDERAL.

SWITZERLAND INCLUDED IN MAP OF "GREATER GERMANY."

In a leading article the "Gazette de Lausanne" protested against the publishing in Germany of a document suggesting that that country has designs on Switzerland.

The April number of an official monthly bulletin published for the use of the teaching profession and the pupils of German evening schools, which is also circulated by the German Nazi organisation in Switzerland, contained a map in which nearly the whole of Switzerland was included in the territory of the "Greater Germany." The frontier between Germany and Switzerland was described as "the boundary of the internal separation of the territory of the German people."

The "Gazette de Lausanne" said that in this bulletin Switzerland was invariably included among the German States and the 3,000,000 German-speaking inhabitants of Switzerland were described as Germans living beyond the frontiers. The same map appeared in Marshal Göring's paper, the "National Zeitung" of Essen, on April 10th. The "Gazette de Lausanne" also said it should be known in Berlin that there was complete unanimity in Switzerland on the point that Switzerland was ready to make any sacrifices to defend her integrity and independence.

It is semi-officially announced that in consequence of a protest made at Berlin by the Swiss Government the German Government has undertaken to withdraw the map from circulation.

SUBVERSIVE PROPAGANDA IN SWITZERLAND.

The Swiss Federal Council has extended its decree of November, 1936, against Communist action to cover propaganda likely to endanger the State. Thus the Government, Customs, and postal authorities are now entitled to seize all propaganda material, either Communist or Anarchist, anti-militarist, anti-religious, or likely to endanger the internal or external security of the Confederation, particularly as regards its independence and neutrality, its democratic institutions, and its national defence.

This will make it possible to take action against Nazi propaganda, which seems to have developed in Switzerland during the past few weeks. The new Federal powers also cover propaganda leaflets and material printed in Switzerland.

SWITZERLAND'S POPULATION.

"The schools are becoming deserted, while the homes for the aged are filling up."

In these terms Dr. Charles Brueschweiler, director of the Federal Statistics Bureau, describes Switzerland's population problem. By 1960, he estimates, there will be 100,000 fewer Swiss than the present four million odd.

In 1910 there were 1,173,240 children under 16 in Switzerland, and in 1930 only 998,391. In 1940, if the present tendency continues, there will be only 890,000.

Dr. Brueschweiler states that Switzerland has one of the lowest birthrates in the world. Thirty per cent. of Swiss married couples have no children, 20 per cent. one child, 20 per cent. two children, and only 30 per cent. more than two.

In the towns 65 per cent. of couples have either one child or none at all. And whereas 80 years ago only 370,000 people lived in the towns of Switzerland, to-day their combined population is a million and a half.

RADIO DEALER RESTRICTIONS

A decree recently issued in Switzerland restricts the sale of radio to traders holding a special licence. As a result of this the number of radio dealers has fallen from 3,000 to 850.

ON THEIR WAY FROM SWITZERLAND INTO TIBET are a number of famous St. Bernard dogs, renowned for their life-saving feats in the mountains. A monk from the St. Bernard Hospice is to deliver them to the Augustine Convent in the Himalayas, where they are expected to continue saving unlucky mountaineers as they have done for a century past in Switzerland.

SWISS MILITARY APPOINTMENT.

The Federal Council has appointed Colonel Hans Frick, chief of section of the General Staff, to the post of second assistant to the chief of the General Staff.

Colonel Frick was born in 1888 in Zurich, he entered the Federal Instruction Corps in 1914; he was at one time commander of the infantry battalion 98 (Zurich), and the infantry regiment 28. Since 1935 he has held an appointment in the General Staff.

STREET ACCIDENTS IN SWITZERLAND.
