FIRST OF AUGUST.

FEDERAL.

This year, the First of August was celebrated throughout Switzerland with more than the usual solemnity. The theme of all the patriotic demon-strations was one of national unity which bor-dered on a sacred union of all the political forces of the country. The disappearance off the map of Europe of several states seemed to weich heavily at the background of these demonstrations. The need of a strong army and of physical and moral preparedness was the predominant note in all the speeches delivered on that day. M. Etter, Presi-dent of the Swiss Confederation, declared notably that "To-day, as in 1914, all Swiss are prepared to defend their heritage and the heritage of their fathers.

As usual, bonfires were lit even in the smallest village, and the inhabitants listened standing and bare-headed at the lecture of the federal pact of 1291. For a quarter of an hour all the church bells pealed in unison. At Zurich thousands of spectators witnessed artillery exer-cises with live ammunition and saw the latest Swiss arms which included anti-tank guns and the new 105mm. gun. At Zermatt, guides ascended the Matterhorn and soon a bright fire gleamed on the summit of one of the highest Alpine peaks.

At Lausanne the Duke and Duchess of Kent were cheered when seen wearing the white cross.

The day ended with everyone returning home with the same ideal — that of upholding in any circumstances the integrity and the independence of the motherland.

FRONTIER BRIGADES UNDER THE COLOURS.

The Federal Government have decided to recall for a period of fifteen days, all the frontier-brigades with the exception of two brigades who have already served under the colours this year and who will be recalled for another fortnight's service in the near future.

Senator H. S. Foll, Australian Minister of the Interior, stated in Canberra that selected Swiss immigrants may soon be entering Australia at the rate of fifty a month under an agreement between the Swiss Consul General and the Com-monwealth Government. The settlers will in-clude highly skilled mechanics and farmers.

GOOD NEWS FOR RECRUITS ABROAD.

GOOD NEWS FOR RECRUITS ABROAD. Young compatriots who find themselves abroad when they have to undergo military training will be glad to hear of a new privilege which has just been accorded to them. In future, recruits will have their travelling expenses from their domicile abroad to the military headquar-ters at home refunded. Those who are permanent residents abroad are handed, on the termination of their conscription course, a voucher defraying them of the cost of the return journey if the latter is undertaken within two months.

SWISS TRADE.

Sir F. H. Bowater, Lord Mayor of London, and the deputation from the Corporation of the City of London, arrived last Saturday at Basle, on a state visit to Zurich and Berne.

On his arrival at Zurich and Berne. On his arrival at Zurich, the Lord Mayor was escorted to his hotel by a detachment of 150 Zurich City police. The same afternoon, thousands of school-children gave the distin-guished visitor a hearty welcome as he drove in procession to the City Hall for a civic reception. In his speech, the mayor said notably that the links between London and Switzerland are so many and their standard of fair dealings in com-merce so high that he felt that they were all in one home. one home.

Earlier in the day twenty-two girls dressed in their native Canton costume had presented a bouquet to Sir F. H. Bowater.

The following day the Lord Mayor of London was received at Unterfageri by Dr. Philipp Etter, President of the Swiss Confederation. At this reception Swiss national songs and folk dances featured on the programme, and Sir Frank Bowater was presented with a large bottle of kirsch. Later the Lord Mayor and Deputation paid an official visit to the Swiss National Exhi-bition. This was followed by an official banquet given by the City Council of Zurich. At the National Exhibition the Lady Mayoress was pre-sented with an exquisite example of the Swiss watch making craft. Monday was devoted to another visit to the Exhibition, a trip on the Lake and a gala performance of "Carmen" at the Opera House. The weather was glorious and the city bedecked with British and Swiss flags. The next day Sir Frank Bowater left for Berne, where he wisited the bear-pit. The same evening he was the chief guest at the banquet offered by the City of Berne. Wednesday, a trip on the Lake of Thun marked the end of this memorable visit. The Mayor left for London the same night.
