VISIT OF THE MAYOR OF ST. PANCRAS to the COLLEGE of the SWISS MERCANTILE SOCIETY.

(From left to right) :-- Messers, C. M. R. BONEY, J. J. SCHNEIDER, J. LOCKYER, MRS. W. MEIER, MISS R. H. BENZIE, MESSES, A. LEVY (Principal), R. WEIST, MISS WATTS, MR. R. S. THOMPSON, The MAYORESS, MESSES, F. W. BEVAN, P. F. BOEHENNGER, The MAYOR, Messers, A. Stauffer, J. J. Boos (President), V. H. BURRASTON, C. C. BOTTOMS, C. SLADE, W. BURREN.

Wednesday, April 19th, was another red-letter day in the annals of the College of the S.M.S. The Mayor of St. Pancras, Councillor G. A. Watts, J.P., accompanied by the Mayoress and Miss Watts, paid an official visit to Swiss House. He was received by Mr. J. J. Boos, Presi-dent of the Swiss Mercantile Society, and Mr. A. Levy, Principal of the College. Mrs. Meier pre-sented a bouquet of red and white carnations (Swiss colours) to the Mayoress.

Messrs, M. Heilinger, L. W. Krucker, J. J. Pfaendler and A. C. Stahelin, members of the Council; Messrs, G. Haberstich, M. Rothlisber-ger and R. Weist, members of the Education Committee, and Mr. A. Stauffer, Editor of the Swiss Observer, were presented to the Mayor.

The Mayor, Mayoress and Miss Watts then visited some of the classes to obtain an idea of the work of the College. The students assembled in the Lecture Room where they were addressed by His Worship, the Mayor, who said it gave him great pleasure, as Mayor of the Borough of St. Pancras, to have come to Swiss House. He encouraged the students to make themselves efficient in Eng-lish as well as to learn the manners and customs lish as well as to learn the manners and customs of the English people. He had gathered from his visit to the class rooms that the students were envisit to the class rooms that the students were en-deavouring in a very short period to acquire all the knowledge needed for their future careers. He was well aware of the efforts required by students to perfect themselves in order to reach that high standard of perfection which they were now aiming at in the course of the short period of three to six months. The Mayor expressed to the students the cordial wishes of the Borough of St. Pancras and hoped that their stay at the Col-lege at Swiss House would prove to be a fruitful one. From what he had seen of the teaching he was convinced that the students would take back to Switzerland a complete knowledge of the sub-jects taught if they diligently applied themselves to their studies. Apart from their studies they jects taught if they diligently applied themselves to their studies. Apart from their studies they were also able to learn something about the different institutions and organisations in this country which, together with their general educa-tion, must help them in understanding the Eng-lish nation. He hoped that his country would also send its students to Switzerland for a similar purpose. The Mayor voiced the opinion that such an interchance must materially help in furthering an interchange must materially help in furthering international goodwill, as an interchange of views between various nationals must of necessity help between various nationals must of necessity help to reach a better understanding and consequently contribute to world peace. He continued that if young people travelled in various countries those great aims would surely materialise. In con-clusion the Mayor expressed his great pleasure with his visit to the College and wished the students a very happy stay in London and that they would reach that efficiency in their various walks of life which they all desired walks of life which they all desired.

Mayor's address was vociferously applauded by the assembly.

Mr. A. Levy, Principal of the College, then thanked the Mayor on behalf of the College. He wished to say how sensible all were of the great honour conferred on the College by the presence of the Mayor as well as the Mayoress and their daughter. The Mayor, he said, as First Citizen and as Magistrate of the great Metropolitan Borough of St. Pancras, despite his multitudin-ous duties had found time to visit the College that afternoon and to deliver a most interesting address which the students would ever remember. The Principal said that the College which had been situated in the Borough of St. Pancras for a number of years was perhaps not so widely known amongst its inhabitants as to the people in Switzerland for the work was carried on very quietly and unostentationsly. He pointed out that the reason why the College was only attended by students of Swiss nationality was due to the fact that the College was subsidised by the Swiss Federal Government. The students in general Federal Government. The students in general already possessed a high standard of general edu-cation when they reached Swiss House and the College curriculum included the study of the Eng-lish language and literature, commercial subjects and an insight into the British Constitution, such as the Monarchy, Parliament, how laws were made and put into effect. The Principal felt very strongly that with a knowledge of language, literature, commerce and laws of a foreign coun-try one would be able to learn and appreciate the beautiful qualities of the people of that particular try one would be able to learn and appreciate the beautiful qualities of the people of that particular country. Therefore, he continued. Swiss House was doing work of importance not only to Swit-zerland but as His Worship the Mayor had said to the whole world at large. He referred to a remark previously made by the Mayor that edu-cation in the course of time must help nations to live in peace. In conclusion the Principal create a supersonal this heart of the theory to the theory of the second second second second second second second second to the supersonal time heart of the theory of the second terms of the second second second second second second terms of the second second second second second second terms of the second second second second second second second terms of the second second second second second second second terms of the second second second second second second second terms of the second second second second second second second second terms of the second second second second second second second second terms of the second again expressed his heartfelt thanks to the Mayor. the Mayoress and their daughter for the great honour bestowed upon the College by their official visit that afternoon.

The next part of the proceedings took place in the Members Room where the Teaching Staff joined the mayoral party and members of the Council and the Education Committee. Mr. Boos, on behalf of the Swiss Mercantile Society, thanked the Mayor for having visited Swiss House. He gave a brief outline of the history of Swiss House and in particular of the activities of the Society. He said that the College through which some 10,000 students had passed had been situated for the past 12 years in the Metropolitan Borough of St. Pancras which with about 200,000 inhabitants was one of the largest and most im-portant Boroughs in the Metropolitan area. Mr. Boos mentioned that whereas before the War Swiss nationals were able to come to England and take up positions in various branches of in-dustry this was no longer possible in post war years owing to restrictions on immigration. That induced the Swiss Mercantile Society to found induced the Swiss Mercantile Society to found a College in 1922 in order to give the young Swiss opportunities of obtaining in a comparatively short period a thorough command of the English language and business methods. With the sublanguage and business methods. With the sub-sidy granted by the Swiss Government and with the financial support of Swiss firms and in-dividual donors it was possible to offer a com-prehensive course of studies at moderate fees. Mr. Boos also mentioned the activities of the societies other than the S.M.S. which had their headquarters at Swiss House — in particular the Swiss Benerolent Society, which looked after the welfare of the poor and aged Swiss.

The Mayor responded to Mr. Boos's words of welcome and once more expressed his pleasure and satisfaction at having come to Swiss House. On the departure of the mayoral party several photographs were taken. WB

THE ETERNAL QUESTION. (After PETER ROSEGGER'S Allegory "Die Frage des Ewigen.")

A dream -- a vision — haunted me last night,

A dream — a vision — naunted me nast hight, Vouchsaving to my inner eye an awful sight, For I beheld, upon His judgment seat, A glimpse of the Almighty. — Gather'd at His feet Sat those, who on their earthly pilgrimage, Were leaders of mankind: Saint, warrior and sage.

Then God called Moses, speaking to him thus: "Thy gift bestouc'd upon the tribes so numerous "Name it!" — And Moses answer'd Him: "The Law." Said God: "Did this turn their idolatry to awe, "Or teach them where Salvation should begin?" "No Lord, they tried in vain and fell back into sin" sin.

The Judge called CHARLEMAGNE next and asked him, too, What was the greatest gift bequeath'd, of which he knew.

he knew,
Upon the peoples under his domain?
He said: "The Altar should have been their holiest gain."
"And did they sanctify it, for My Sake?" ...<" No Lord, for answer they set up the ghoulish stake."

NAPOLEON rose and bowed before the throne, God asked the selfsame question in the selfsame tone : "Tell me the greatest gift thou gav'st mankind?" "My wondrous deeds left glory with renown entwin'd."

"And were those hopes fulfilled, as thou didst claim?" " No Lord, they turned to disappointment and to shame

The Heav'nly Judge asked many great ones more

About their deeds on earth and on the fruit they bore, But all and sundry, as the first three, told Of sordid ashes where they looked for glitt'ring gold; Of heritage misused, cast off, disgraced, Of disillusion'd hopes and sacred trusts misplaced.

God, at the last, called His begotten Son And asked, full of compass'nate love, if He had won, By bringing to this sinful world His PEACE, That hatred, strife and war for ever ought to cease? CHRIST answer'd not. - In pierced hands He kept His face averted and, bowed down with sorrow, wept...
