The Federal Council has appointed Monsieur Alexandre Girardet, hitherto Swiss Minister in Prague, to the post of Swiss Minister in Copenhagen.

Minister Girardet was born in 1889 at Prilly near Lausanne; he studied law at the University of Lausanne where he obtained the degree of doctor of law; he then became avocat au barreau vaudois.

In 1917, he joined the Federal Political Department, and at one time occupied the post of private secretary to the late Federal Councillor Gustave Ador. A year later (1918) he was promoted to Secretary of Legation, and later for some time was attached to the International Committee of the Red Cross in Geneva.

In 1924, he acted as Chargé d'Affaires in Warsaw. From 1925-1927, Monsieur Girardet held the post of First Secretary at the Swiss Legation in Washington, after which he spent two years in Berne, where he was attached to the commercial division of the "Département fédéral de l'Economie publique." In 1929, he joined the well-known engineering works of Adolphe Saurer in Arbon in the capacity of general secretary, and later on was appointed Sub-Manager of this concern, which he left in 1938 to re-enter the diplomatic service.

In that year, he was transferred to the Swiss Legation in London, where he was in charge of the commercial division. In 1943, Monsieur Girardet was promoted to Counsellor of Legation and from November 1943 to August 1944 acted as Chargé d'Affaires at the Legation in London. On February 27th, the Federal Council appointed him Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the Republic of Czechoslovakia.

Minister Reinhard Hohl, Chief of the legal section of the Swiss Political Department in Berne, has been appointed Swiss Minister in Prague in succession to Minister Girardet.

Minister Hohl was born in 1893 in Rheineck. After having studied law at the Universities of Zurich, Berne and Geneva, where he obtained the degree of doctor of law, he entered the Swiss Foreign Office in 1919, where he occupied various important posts the latest of which was Head of the Department of Legal, Financial and Traffic Affairs. In 1941, he was promoted to Counsellor of Legation, and six years later (1948) received the title of Minister.

Monsieur Edouard de Haller, has been appointed Swiss Minister in Oslo, in succession to Minister Zurlinden, who has been transferred, some time ago, to Moscow.

Minister de Haller, who is a citizen of Berne, was born in 1897 in Cologny (Geneva). He studied law at the Universities of Geneva and Zurich, where he obtained the degree of doctor of law.

From 1921-1923 he was a member of the Danzig commission, and for several years afterwards sat on various commissions dealing with the transfer of populations between Greece and Turkey.

Minister de Haller entered in 1940 into the services of the International Red Cross Committee. Since 1942, he has been Head of the International Department for "Hilfswerk" at the Federal Political Department in Berne.

Argentine values have improved on Swiss markets as a result of the partial settlement of the Swiss-Argentine trade dispute. Argentine has agreed to lift some of the quota restrictions on imports from Switzerland, who, in return, will increase exports to the Argentine by extending credit facilities.

Argentine maintains an embargo on exports to Switzerland pending the final settlement of the question of Argentine funds blocked by Switzerland as a guarantee for Swiss creditors. The improvement of Argentine values is taken as an indication that financial circles hope the partial agreement will be followed by a settlement of the question of blocked funds and Swiss credits.

The Swiss wholesale price index was 0.6 per cent. down at 215.2 at end-August, compared with the figure a month previously (August, 1939 = 100). This decline is attributable to lower prices in all three main groups—foodstuffs, raw and auxiliary materials, fodder and fertilisers.

Egypt and Switzerland have signed a monetary agreement which provides for an exchange of goods. The terms disclosed are rather vague, but they involve chiefly payment for the electrical material required for the Aswan scheme against the export of cotton.

The Swiss may export to Egypt other commodities. A list of quotas has been drawn up but not yet disclosed.

The agreement is for four months only but is noteworthy because it is the first agreed with a hard currency country. The Minister of Commerce intimated his readiness to issue permits for the export of Egyptian mineral products (manganese, phosphates, etc.) on the condition that payment is in hard currency.

This would hit the gold-dollar pool since 60 per cent. of the exports of phosphates would be to the sterling area. Such a policy renders still more difficult Egypt's export problem.

Reopening of the cotton futures market has not given the results anticipated. Hardly any foreign business is being done, and even local transactions are restrained through the restrictions which have been imposed. These latter also have resulted in much business being transacted outside the Bourse.

The conclusion of a trade and payments agreement between Switzerland and Czechoslovakia was announced in Berne.

Effective on October 1st if approved by both Governments, it is valid for one year and remains in force until denounced by either country.

Switzerland will supply principally light machinery and precision tools, dyes, medicines, watches, textiles and some agricultural products.

The payments agreement concerns chiefly financial transfers.

Figures issued show that whereas before the war Britain supplied Switzerland with 6 per cent. of her total requirements of motor-cars, the percentage has now risen to 21 per cent.

The United States supplied 50 per cent., compared with 38 per cent. before the war.

France supplied 15 per cent., against 11 per cent., while Italy's share dropped from 15 to 11 per cent.

Germany's supplies amounted to 29 per cent. in 1938, but are only 3 per cent. at present. There is every likelihood that this figure will be increased in the near future.

During the first seven months of this year the number of British cars imported into Switzerland was 4,055.

The "Financial Times" in their issue of the 22nd of September, writes under the heading "Swiss and Gold" the following:—

"The latest return of the Swiss National Bank, dated September 15th, shows an unusually large addition to the gold holdings of that institution. The actual increase during the week was just over 122,000,000 Swiss francs—nearly £7,000,000—and it makes a total expansion in this item of more than 163,000,000 Swiss francs (about £9½ millions) in a little over a month.

Moreover, the aggregate holding of 5,749,925,708 Swiss francs (more than £300,000,000) is now some 500,000,000 francs above that at the beginning of the current year.

The continued expansion of these gold holdings has occasioned some surprise in City circles. It does not fit in with the trend of Swiss trade and it is assumed that, in part at least, the growth is due to special circumstances. In this connection, it may be recalled that, on a previous occasion when additions to the stock were on a large scale, the explanation lay in the fact that the Swiss Federal Treasury was transferring some of its holdings back to the National Bank. During the war, when gold was flowing into Switzerland despite all the defensive measures taken by the National Bank, the Federal Treasury arranged to take over some of the gold of the National Bank. The object was to mop up the purchasing power it would have created otherwise. These operations were financed by internal borrowing.

The change in the trend of trading for Switzerland had led to some depletion of the National Bank stocks and the Federal authorities may have decided to replace these losses from their own holdings. It may be, also, that some of the recent additions may have come by way of other Central Banks."

In 1946-47 the Directorate of the Swiss General Post Office decided to erect a high aerial mast at the Sottens transmitting station. The type decided upon was a 625ft. vertical mast and the design was entrusted to Mr. Dick, Consulting Engineer, Lucerne, Entreprise Rüttimann Frères, Zoug, carried out the erection of the mast. The steelwork, of the lattice truss type, is composed of booms (solid bars, with diameters up to ½in.) and tubular diagonals. The mast is provided with horizontal bracing in order to resist torsional stresses. At its base, 59ft. square, the mast is supported on four soapstone insulators. The erection of the mast, composed of bars and tubes, presented many technical difficulties. To overcome these difficulties, the engineers used welded gussets for tubes and special coupling sleeves for assembly of the bars. Ateliers de Constructions Mécaniques de Vévey were responsible for the fabrication of the lower part of the mast, about 345ft. high.

IMPORTS OF SWISS GOODS INTO THE UNITED KINGDOM DURING 1948.

(Communicated by Swiss Legation.)

Further to the arrangements made during the Trade talks of February last, providing for the admission by the United Kingdom of various Swiss exports during 1948, provision has since been made for a number of additional items. A first supplementary list of July last included utility furniture, staple fibre yarns, woollen piece goods, certain plastic articles, drawing pencils and glue. To these have now been added quotas for: electric screen heaters for cars, hob nails, combs, white wines, Kirsch and similar spirits; furthermore, an increase has been arranged for Swiss exports to the United Kingdom of cheese, files and rasps and for certain cotton piece goods.

It should be added that the amounts involved are in most cases rather modest (a number of these articles being considered in the United Kingdom as so called "less essentials"), and that in some cases licensing is subject to special conditions with regard to types, quality, prices, etc.
