MESSAGE DU PRESIDENT DE LA CONFEDERATION.

Mes chers compatriotes,

Au soir du 1er Août, lorsque sonnent les cloches et que s'allument les feux sur les hauteurs, c'est aussi vers vous, mes chers compatriotes de l'étranger, que se portent nos pensées. Votre sort nous tient à cœur. Beaucoup d'entre vous, nous le savons, sont aux prises avec des difficultés. Mais c'est lorsque les temps sont troublés et les lendemains incertains que nous sentons tous, plus fortement encore que dans un monde paisible, les liens de la fraternité qui nous unissent.

Nous savons, Suisses de l'étranger, que vous n'oubliez pas la Patrie et que vous ne l'oublierez jamais. Nous savons qu'en ce jour de Fête nationale c'est vers la Suisse que se tournent vos regards et qu'une seule pensée unit tous les Confédérés, où qu'ils se trouvent, en une intime communion.

Le Conseil fédéral et le peuple suisse tout entier vous adressent leurs vœux les meilleurs. Ce salut de la Patrie témoigne de notre volonté de rester tous unis, quelles que puissent être les distances qui nous séparent.

Puissent le bonheur et la prospérité être accordés à toutes nos colonies. Puisse le travail des Suisses de l'étranger être couronné de succès.

Notre vœu le plus ardent est qu'en ce jour du 1er Août, le même amour de la Patrie anime le cœur de tous les Suisses, au pays comme à l'étranger.

Ed. de Steiger,

Président de la Confédération.

Swiss mountain guides will reduce their fares by a third as a result of a Swiss Federal Council decision to make a subsidy to the Mountain Guides' Association.

A day's climbing tour of the Matterhorn will now cost 100 francs (£8 4s.), compared with 150 francs (£12 6s.) in the past.

The Swiss Government warned housewives to lay in a two month's supply of essential provisions, including sugar, rice, fats, oil and soap.

Recalling a similar Government warning last year, the Department of Public Economy said that those families which had consumed stocks should lose no time in replacing them. "In a troubled period such as now," the statement said, "reason demands that citizens of a country without access to the sea should have sufficient supplies on hand."

Official figures just published in Switzerland show that only 43, or 0.3 per cent of the 86,800 Swiss civil servants are Jews. Swiss Jews form 0.5 per cent of the total population in the country.

The "Chanson le vieux pays" from St. Maurice (Ct. Valais), has been awarded the second prize at the International Eisteddfod which took place at Llangollen on the 3rd-8th of July.

A bronze axe dating back to 1,000 B.C. has been uncovered in Schinznach-les-bains.

Figures just issued show that far from being an expensive place to live in, Switzerland can easily hold its own with its neighbours and countries in other parts of the world.

A study of price increases in a number of Western European countries, as well as the U.S.A. since April 1950, shows that prices have jumped from 4 to 23%. Yet, during the same period, prices in Switzerland went up only by three per cent.

Switzerland's two intercontinental airports of Kloten (Zurich) and Cointrin (Geneva) are developing rapidly as figures for the first three months of 1951 show.

Kloten has recorded a total of 59,602 passengers, a third more than for the same period in 1950, when there were 44,852 passengers. Freight has gone up to 1,439 tons — a jump of 64 per cent — and postal traffic has gone up by 44 per cent, from 277 tons to 398 tons. A third of the passenger traffic — 19,183 people — passed through Kloten in transit.

Regular airlines serving Cointrin report that the average number of passengers per plane was 18.4 compared with 15.9 during the first three months of last year.

Daily number of passengers using the airport was 506 (446 in 1950). Total tonnage, including postal and freight traffic and baggage, was almost 30 tons a day, against 22½ tons last year. Passengers during the same period totalled 45,548 (40,184 last year); freight was more than 1,268 tons (749 tons) and postal traffic 357 tons (293 tons).

Happy peals from many belfries will celebrate on August 9th the opening of festivities to mark the 450th anniversary of Schaffhausen's entry into the Swiss Confederation.

Highspots of the celebration will be on Saturday, August 11th, when official guests from all parts of Switzerland will bring greetings. Mr. von Steiger,

President of Switzerland, will speak, and a historical procession will wind its way through the streets. Then, before an audience of 3,500 people, a play called "Schaffhauser Bundesspiel", written in the Schaffhausen dialect by Albert J. Welti, will be enacted by a company of 500. It will include scenes of the Swabian War, when Swiss soldiers defeated German troops of the Emperor Maximilian and freed the Confederation from the German Empire.

A map of Switzerland, showing roads open to coaches and other motor vehicles with a maximum width of 94½ inches for Swiss coaches — or 98½ inches if they are from other countries — has been published by the Federal Department of Justice and Police. On the reverse the following notice is printed in English, French, German and Italian :

"Switzerland is a mountainous country. Roads are generally narrow and there are many bends and frequent steep gradients. Therefore vehicles with an overall width of more than 86½ inches are only allowed to circulate on certain roads. On the reverse side you will find a map of the system of these roads. According to Swiss law the maximum overall width for vehicles is 94½ inches but in the interest of tourism the Swiss authorities are allowing on a trial basis foreign coaches with an overall width of not more than 98½ inches to use the roads shown on this map. They are not, however, allowed on any other roads.

Drivers of foreign coaches are requested to use great caution, especially when overtaking or when meeting other vehicles coming from the opposite direction. They should always adjust their speed to road and traffic conditions and should not hesitate in giving the right of way to cars travelling at a higher speed and wishing to overtake. On mountain roads special care is necessary. For your own safety you should use the same gear downhill as you would uphill.

Driving a heavy vehicle is especially tiring in mountainous country. For this reason Swiss law limits to nine hours a day the period during which a driver can be at the wheel. Please do remember this rule. If you follow these instructions your travels in Switzerland will be pleasant and safe."

It is stated that coaches wider than 86½ inches can only use the Amsteg-Goeschenen road if they are going to continue their journey by rail through the St. Gottard tunnel.

Coinciding with last month's celebrations of the entry of the canton of Zurich into the Swiss Confederation 600 years ago, museums in the city are organising several interesting exhibitions. The Art Museum (Kunsthaus) offers a panoramic view of the city's cultural development under the title "Zurich 1351-1951", consisting of old manuscripts, minstrel songs of the 14th century and church windows of the 16th century. At the Helmhaus, there is an exhibition on "Hodler as a Painter of History", devoted to the works of this great Swiss painter.

Another exhibition called "Six hundred years of Zurich Silk" is being held at the Museum of Applied Art (Kunstgewerbemuseum) showing the development of the industry and the talent of Zurich craftsmen. Visitors can walk along an "avenue of silk" decorated with the most recent creations of the Zurich mills. A fine collection of photographs demonstrates the way Zurich silk is being used by famous dress designers of Paris, London and New York.

The Swiss Government have granted the necessary concession to the Martigny-Orsières Railway to build a new branch line (normal gauge) from Sembrancher to Le Châble. The new line will provide speedy access to the holiday resort of Verbier, whose latest attractions now include a chair lift. It will also be able to carry as far as Le Châble the cement and other building materials needed for the construction of the great Mauvoisin dam, at the far end of the Valley of Bagnes.
