TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

For some time past, negotiations have taken place with the Swiss Presidents Assembly and the Swiss Economic Council, with a view to putting the "Swiss Observer", which was founded in 1919, on a sound financial basis.

Greatly increased costs of production during the last few years, due to higher wages and the heavy cost of paper, have greatly endangered the continuation of the Official Organ of the Swiss Colony in Great Britain. To partly counter these ever mounting expenses, a slightly higher subscription rate came into operation in April of last year, which, however, proved inadequate to meet the case, and a further small increase may be found necessary in the near future.

Encouraged by the wish expressed by a large majority of our subscribers, that this publication should be carried on at all costs, we put the position before the members of the above named institutions, taking the view, that the responsibilities hitherto borne by the Publishers and the Editor alone, should now be shared by the Colony as a whole.

We are pleased to announce, that an Advisory Council has recently been formed, consisting of the following members:— R. de Cintra (Chairman), O. F. Boehringer, Ls. Chapuis, J. Eusebio, Gottfried Keller, R. Keller, R. Pfenninger, A. Stauffer, G. E. Suter.

This newly constituted Council is to act in an advisory capacity concerning administrative and financial matters only, the Editor to remain completely independent.

We are glad to say, that our Minister, Monsieur H. de Torrenté, is in full agreement with the steps taken and the conclusions arrived at.

We sincerely hope that the contribution of the Colony's paper can be assured. As Publishers and Editor of the "Swiss Observer" we appeal most earnestly and fervently to all our compatriots and English friends connected with the life of our Colony, to give this Council their wholehearted support. We on our part shall endeavour to keep the "Swiss Observer" as useful and interesting as possible.

O. F. BOEHRINGER,
for the Publishers.

A. STAUFFER,
The Editor.

The Swiss Federal Government decided to purchase from Britain 150 fighters at a cost of 175m. Swiss francs. It is said in Berne that the fighters will be improved Vampires. Swiss newspapers described as a "regrettable slip" and "interference in Swiss affairs" statements made at a Zürich Press conference by Mr. Tauber, the Czechoslovak Minister in Berne. In the presence of a few foreign correspondents and two or three Swiss journalists, the Minister spoke of the danger to her neighbours of western Germany's remilitarization and criticized the policy of the allies in Germany as well as that of the Bonn Government. Some newspapers point out that as Switzerland is among Germany's neighbours it was not his part to give advice to the Swiss Government and that such statements were not within his diplomatic competence.

Police are investigating charges of endangering Swiss security against Pierre Nicole, son of the veteran leader of the Swiss Workers' Party, Leon Nicole.

The State Prosecutor charges Nicole with "spreading rumours dangerous to the State regarding foreign plans."

Celebrating its Golden Jubilee this year is the Aero Club of Switzerland, and to commemorate half a century of aerial activity and progress, official celebrations will be held in Berne on March 31st.

Founded in Berne on March 31st, 1901, the Club started operations with 72 members under the chairmanship of Colonel Schaeck. Until they were joined by powered aircraft and glider enthusiasts, the Club members were mainly concerned with ballooning and twice won the Gordon Bennett Trophy, which was held in Switzerland three times altogether.

At the inauguration of the Fédération Aéronautique Internationale in Paris in 1905, Switzerland was represented by the Club. Since then the development of Swiss flying has been largely bound up with the history of the Club, which now boasts 33 branches and 5,800 members, among whom are large numbers of model aircraft constructors.

In addition to the Jubilee celebrations in Berne, there will be a Spring Congress at Lucerne on May 26th, the International Round Switzerland Flight from August 12th to 16th, the Flying Week at Saanen-Gstaad from August 12th to 18th, and other flying meetings.

Sion airport, now classed among the five top aerodromes in Switzerland, had a busy 1950. International and intercantonal tourist traffic has exceeded all expectations, and the geographic situation of the airport, which is in the Rhone Valley in South-Western Switzerland, has enabled it to take its place alongside those of Cointrin (Geneva) and Kloten (Zurich). More than 400 foreign planes landed without accident on Sion's excellent runway during the year. There were 2,334 flights in the region, and military planes used the airport almost daily. During the recent avalanches planes from Sion dropped supplies to people cut off by snow.

The 18-hole golf course at Crans-sur-Sierre (Valais), one of the finest in Switzerland and well-known to English tourists, is to have a rival in the nearby Moubra valley. The second nine-hole course, which is to be opened this summer, is claimed to be technically perfect — but golfers are warned that the new links will be difficult and will call for maximum skill and precision. Thanks to a sunny autumn work on preparing the greens by an entirely new method has been speedily completed and the course will be ready in time for its scheduled opening on June 1st, 1951.

Latest aid to brighter travelling in Switzerland is a mobile cinema which can be attached to a normal passenger train. Engineers of the Swiss Federal Railways stripped seats from an ordinary coach and replaced them by comfortable chairs, erected a screen at one end and blacked out the windows. Part of the current needed to drive the film projector comes from a dynamo powered by a petrol motor.

According to the preliminary programme other concerts will include: Opening concert (conductor: Leopold Stokowski) on August 11th, Boccherini Quintet on August 13th, Symphony concert (Wilhelm Furtwaengler) on August 15th, Symphony concert (Igor Markevitch) on August 18th, Symphony concert (André Cluytens) on August 22nd, Chamber music concert (the Fischer-Schneiderhans-Mainardi Trio with William Primrose) on August 23rd, Scenes from Richard Wagner's "Twilight of the Gods" (Wilhelm Furtwaengler) on August 25th, and on September 1st and 2nd Bach's Mass in b Minor, conducted by Herbert von Karajan and performed by the choral society of Vienna and the Vienna Symphony Orchestra. The Serenade at the Lion Monument, on August 19th, will be given by the Zurich Collegium Musicum conducted by Paul Sacher. During the festival there will also be a chamber music concert devoted to works of Swiss composers, an organ recital and a competitive festival at the Conservatoire. The names of soloists will be announced later and the general programme, which will contain full details and booking forms, will shortly be available from the Official Enquiry Office in Lucerne, 4 Schweizerhofquai. to mark the occasion special festivities are being held there in July. The first ceremony will be at Liestal, capital of Basle-Country, on July 12th, when representatives of the Federal Council, the Council of States and the Army will be welcomed by the cantonal and communal authorities. Towards the end of the afternoon a special train will take them to Basle itself (which is the capital of Basle-Town), where in the large square in front of the Cathedral there will be a ceremony in honour of the delegates from Basle-Country. Next day they will go in procession to the scene of the battle of St.-Jacques-sur-la-Birse where, on August, 1444, 1,200 Confederates attacked 40,000 Armagnac mercenaries of the French army. Four thousand of the enemy were killed, and the Swiss were massacred to the last man in defending their homeland. The Armagnacs fled and the battle resulted in the eventual independence of Basle.

Vevey, holiday town on the Swiss Riviera, is the scene this year of the Rhône Festival which takes place every year at one of the towns on the course of the River Rhône. Starting from the famous Rhône Glacier in the Canton of Valais, the Rhône flows through the Lake of Geneva and crosses South-Eastern France until it empties itself into the Mediterranean near Marseilles. Each year the honour of holding the Rhône Festival goes to France and Switzerland alternatively. Last year it was the turn of Avignon in France and during this year's Festival, which opens on June 15th, the authorities of Avignon will officially present Vevey with the Rhône Banner. Among the people taking part in the celebrations will be 1,200 people from the principal Rhône towns wearing their picturesque regional costumes, and thousands of visitors are expected from all parts of Europe. During the four days of the Festival there will be carnivals, concerts and dances on the promenade, a regatta, canoe and swimming competitions and mountain excursions.

Although the Swiss Federal Railways is a nationalised concern, an important part in the Swiss railway network is played by the numerous private companies whose trains, most of them electrified by now, cover 1,800 miles of track. Capital investment in these enterprises in fact is more than two million Swiss francs, and the companies carry several million passengers every year. All Swiss high mountain railways, so popular with tourists, are in private hands, and most of them are running all the year round without a break. Swiss private railways are noted for being in the fore with latest improvements in technical construction and passengers are assured of maximum comfort and safety.

Not content with having 41 restaurant and buffet cars on the main tracks in Switzerland, the Swiss Federal Railways have started, as an experiment, the sale of food and drinks in certain trains which do not possess restaurant cars. From March 1st, passengers on two trains travelling between Lausanne and Zurich have been able to buy assorted sandwiches, fruits, eggs, paper-wrapped cakes, as well as biscuits, chocolates, cold drinks, cigars and cigarettes. The experiment is being carried out by the 47-year-old Compagnie Suisse des Wagons-Restaurants, whose 31 restaurant cars, though they never leave the frontiers of Switzerland, run with the great international expresses 2,800,000 miles every year — more than hundred times round the world.

This year not only the Swiss Grand-Prix for motor-cycles and sidecars will count for the classification of the World Championship. This fact has made itself felt in the increased number of applications already received for the Berne event from competitors of Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy and Germany.

The National Gymnastic Festival of Switzerland is being held in Lausanne from July 13th-16th, 1951. The mass exercises in which 25,000 gymnasts will participate will take place on Monday, July 16th, beginning at 11 o'clock, at the aerodrome "La Blécherette".

Apart from private tests in Lausanne, television has not yet made its appearance in Switzerland. But television will be illustrated in a new series of Swiss stamps to be issued next year to commemorate the centenary of the telegraph. Other stamps issued at the same time will picture the telephone, telegraph and wireless. The designer is Mr. Pierre Gauchat, of Zurich, and the stamps were chosen by a committee consisting of representatives of the Federal Commission of Applied Arts, the Central Committee of the Union of Swiss Philatelic Societies, and the Swiss Post Office. They met under the presidency of Mr. W. A. de Salis, general secretary of the Swiss Post Office.
