The following deaths are announced from Switzerland:—

Colonel Edwin, Robert Schwarzenbach, in Rüschlikon, at the age of 74.

The deceased was born on July, 25th, 1878, in Zurich, the son of Robert Schwarzenbach, the well-known Silk industrialist. After his schooling in Switzerland he went to a Public School in England and afterwards continued his studies at the University of Cambridge, where he took his degree as a Bachelor of Art.

After an apprenticeship at Lyons he entered, on the death of his father (1904), at the age of 26, the firm at Thalwil, where, with his two brothers, he carried on the parental business with great success.

In the army he reached the rank of Brigadier-Colonel (Cavalry). Colonel Schwarzenbach was one of the pioneers of the "Zivilluftfahrt" in Switzerland and sat on the Board of "Swissair".

For sportsmen throughout the world the beginning of 1952 is marked by an intense preparation for the forthcoming summer Olympic Games, which are to be held at Helsinki in July. Swiss gymnasts, among the best in the world, are expected to carry off many of the prizes, and for a while now a number of them have been undergoing intensive training.

The selection of the Swiss gymnasts to go to Helsinki will take place after the final of the Swiss championships at Lausanne on March 30th. Because of this, the championships, which are being held in the new hall of the Swiss Fair (Comptoir Suisse), will take on an even greater importance. Taking part will be Switzerland's 20 best gymnasts, of whom several are world champions.

The outstanding powers of such men as Josef Stalder, Frey, Tschabold, Gunthard, Gebendinger and Thalmann, who capture the admiration of laymen and specialists alike, assure spectators of an event of great interest. The contest promises to be lively, with many promising competitors struggling for first place, while the 20 referred to will do all their best to be chosen for the team of ten to go into training before carrying their country's colours to Finland.

This year's "Tour de Suisse" (the all-Switzerland cycling race) will take place from June 14th to 21st — midway between similar races in Italy and France. It will consist of eight stages, and there will be no rest day. It is believed that the route will not be so difficult as in the last few years, but it will include a time trial. Although the final itinerary has not yet been announced it is known there will be stages in Eastern Switzerland, North-Western Switzerland, the Jura region, the Cantons of Vaud and the Lower Valais, the Bernese Oberland, Central Switzerland, the Tessin and the Grisons.

The programme for the three-day festival includes processions of yodlers and costume groups on Saturday and Sunday, July 12th and 13th. The pageant will depict local folk customs in the various parts of Switzerland throughout the year.

The festival is expected to attract some ten thousand spectators. Visitors from abroad will be able to combine their enjoyment of costume pageants, yodeling, Alpine horn blowing and flag throwing with a visit to St. Gall's permanent attraction, its abbey, one of the most famous in Europe with its rich collection of early manuscripts and printed books.

St. Gall, the highest city of its size in Europe (2196ft.) is 53 miles north-east of Zurich on the direct route connecting Zurich with Lake Constance and Southern Germany. It was named after the Irish monk, Gallus, who established a Benedictine abbey on the site of the city in the seventh century. St. Gall is now world famous for its textiles, including cotton, muslin, embroidery and lace.
