The Swiss Government has published the texts of an exchange of wartime letters between President Roosevelt and M. Eduard von Steiger, then President of the Swiss Confederation, in which the Swiss emphasised their traditional policy of impartiality toward belligerent states.

Two letters, written in January and March, 1945, followed an Allied request to stop trading with Nazi Germany.

The Swiss letters did not specifically refuse to stop trade but said, "The unchangeable policy of neutrality followed by the Federal Council does not permit it to regulate its action according to its sentiments".

Goods traffic is returned as 1.72 million tons, which exceeds last year's figures by 373,000 tons. Receipts: 32.15 million francs (February, 1954: 29.29 million francs).

The Italian Ambassador in Berne, Monsieur Egidio Reale, who is leaving his post, gave a farewell party which was attended by 500 people. Apart from the members of the Diplomatic Corps, there were present Federal Councillors Feldmann, Etter, Streuli, and Chaudet, former Federal Councillors von Steiger, Stampfli, Pilet-Golaz, Minger, Rubattel and Weber, as well as high grade army officers, representatives of municipal and cantonal authorities, industrialists, bankers, etc.

At the end of December, 1954, the number of civil servants employed by the Confederation numbered 94,441 (1953: 93,687).

Customs receipts for the month of March, 1955, totalled 66.3 million francs, or 5 million francs more than in March, 1954.

For 424 years Catholics and Protestants have shared the church at Altstaetten.

Now the "partnership" has been dissolved.

Sir Winston Churchill in Syracuse received a silver cup, inscribed: "To Sir Winston S. Churchill. To the man who prevented the invasion of Switzerland in 1944."

The cup, 2ft. high, was the gift of a wealthy Zurich landowner, who learned from the recently published Yalta documents that Stalin had counselled the entry of Allied troops into Switzerland for a speedier ending of the war.

But Sir Winston had objected and the plan was dropped.—Reuter.

The "Pilatus" Circus, well loved in Switzerland, is performing again as the result of public donations totalling 355,407 francs (about (28,000) which saved it from ruin.

The Buhlmann family, which had run the circus for generations, went bankrupt after a series of disasters, including accidents to performers and destruction of their "big top" in a storm.

Swiss newspapers appealed to the public to save the circus, and a company was formed to buy back the circus for the Buhlmann family, replace equipment and pay arrears of salary.

Among the 16 items proposed for consideration are coal-tar dyes, ciné cameras, hat braids, and handkerchiefs. Switzerland claims that the new watch tariffs have affected about £25 million worth of her exports to the United States. The value of United States imports of all the items suggested for discussion is about £6 million a year, of which Switzerland is responsible for about £4,500,000.

The U.S. Government also said that it is adding about 40 new items to a list of commodities which it is considering for possible tariff concessions to Japan.

An Artistic Event at Zurich.

The exhibition of "Etruscan Art and Culture", which has opened at the Kunsthaus in Zurich and will continue until the beginning of April, offers a fascinating general view of the life and artistic creations of a people who are still in many respects an enigma and who ruled over central Italy before the Romans. Architectural remains, burial vaults decorated with mural paintings, terra cotta statuettes, sculpture in stone or cast in bronze and marvels of the goldsmith's art give an idea of this culture lost in the depths of antiquity.

It is only in recent decades that this culture has been more clearly identified and studied, and even made use of by modern art in its search for new sources of inspiration. In order to enlighten a public poorly informed about these remote matters, the Kunsthaus has set aside a special section, organized by Italian experts, for initiating the public into Etruscan culture. The main exhibition displays more than 400 works, varying in importance but all very characteristic, of Etruscan art, through the courtesy of the Italian Government, the Pope, who has kindly lent works from the precious collections in the Vatican, and the principal archeological museums of Paris, Munich, London and New York. But it is interesting to note that some very fine objects have also been lent by private Swiss collectors. This exhibition organized by the Zurich Kunsthaus is certain to arouse great interest by its eminent contribution to the knowledge of Antiquity and the history of art.

New Road Patrols Organized by the Swiss Touring Club.

The Swiss Touring Club has decided to organise road patrols to be located on sections of the roads where the traffic is particularly dense or which, for one reason or another, present certain difficulties. In summer these will mainly be on the Alpine passes and in winter in the vicinity of certain winter sports resorts. The new T.C.S. patrols are provided with small cars. Members of the patrol wear a khaki uniform and their cars are black and yellow with the Swiss Touring Club badge and the words "Touring Secours" painted on them. This emergency and enquiry service, which was introduced last month, is at the disposal of all road users.

A New "Heidi" in Colour.

A new film version of Johanna Spyri's famous book has just been made by the Praesens Film Co. in Zurich. The wonderful scenery of the Grisons which was used for the setting of the film, will appear in all the glory and freshness of its natural colours.

The scenario writers — Richard Schweizer and Max Haufter — and the actors are those that made the first version, which is at present being shown in America. The children, Elisabeth Sigmund and Tommy Klanoth, are the same, only two years older. Their success can but be greater. The film is directed by Franz Schnyder.

Once again the first part of the film is set in the picturesque village of Latsch in the Grisons. Other views have already been taken on the Langgaur Alp and the Fuorcla Surlej, near Pontresina. Nature, wild and of an incomparable beauty, plays an even greater part in this second version than in the first.

(July 12th to 6th August 6th and August 22nd to September 10th, possibly also English and Italian); and LA NEUVEVILLE (July 11th to 30th, mainly for German-speaking pupils).

The courses in German language and literature organised by the University of Commerce, the town and Canton of St. Gall, will be held at the Institute on the Rosenberg in July and August. They are intended for advanced students and teachers of German, whereas the courses organized by the town of Winterthur, from July 11th to August 20th, are intended for pupils of 14 and over.

A large number of private schools for boys and girls, both boarding and day institutions, take pupils during the summer holiday period, from the middle of July to the middle of September. The lessons (2 to 3 hours a day) are given in the mornings, the afternoons being reserved for sport and excursions. Lessons are mainly devoted to learning French or German, in some cases to other foreign languages and a general revision of different subjects.

In all cases, frequent outings and excursions are included in the time-tables of these holiday courses, as well as cultural and recreational activities; there is also every opportunity for students to practise their favourite summer sport. The atmosphere of these holiday courses is very friendly; in a word, they combine instruction with pleasure.

Holiday Season Tickets of the Bernese Oberland Railways.

The Regional Holiday Season Tickets issued by the Bernese Oberland Railways, entitling holders to an unlimited number of journeys over a period of eight working days, have been made even more advantageous. It should be noted that holders of this holiday ticket are also entitled to reduced fares on the Kleine Scheidegg-Jungfrauoch excursion. The regional holiday mileage ticket (which entitles the holder to a reduction of 50% on normal fares) will also be valid for the Lauterbrunnen-Wengen-Scheidegg-Grindelwald section of the line.

The Swiss Government is reported to be considering the construction of four Alpine tunnels. Three of the schemes are for road tunnels, one under the San Bernardino Pass, the second under the Grand St. Bernard, and the third under the St. Gotthard. The fourth, an alternative to the St. Gotthard scheme sponsored by the Government of Canton Ticino, is stated to have been put forward by the Federal Railways and is an outcome of railway and road competition.

The Federal Railways scheme provides for the boring of a second Gotthard tunnel, west of the existing one. The gallery, 9½ miles long, with a siding in the middle, would make it possible to transport on wagons 220 motor cars an hour between Goeschenen and Airolo. It would involve the building of large loading platforms at Goeschenen and Airolo, at the north and south ends respectively of the tunnel.
