The Holiday General Season Ticket. One of the principal reasons for Switzerland's popularity as a tourist country is no doubt its excellent network of communications. Its 16,000 square miles (about twice the size of Wales) are crisscrossed by no less than 3,600 miles of railway lines. Furthermore, boats maintain frequent services in the summer on the many Swiss lakes, and the famous yellow Postal Motor Coaches carry holiday-makers safely across the well-known Alpine Passes.

The Swiss Transport Undertaking offer an excellent ticket to all those travellers who wish to explore Switzerland or who do not want to be tied down to a fixed itinerary. It is the Holiday General Season Ticket, the price for which had to be deducted from the basic allowance until recently. Now it can be paid for in Sterling.

This ticket is a combination of a General Season Ticket and a Half-fare Season Ticket. Out of a total validity of 15 days the holder can select six season ticket days on which unlimited journeys may be made on a network of 3,350 miles of rail and boat services. On a number of mountain railways not incorporated in this network, also on Postal Motor Coaches and some licensed Private Motor Companies, half-fare tickets can be purchased.

On days other than "season ticket days" half-fare tickets for single, return and circular journeys in any class on railways, boats and motor coach lines totalling no less than 7,450 miles may be obtained.

This ticket is also available for a longer validity, i.e., 30 days, with 12 season ticket days. The prices are:

	1st class	2nd class	3rd class
15-day ticket with 6 optional season tickets days ...	£11. 5.0.	£ 8.15.0.	£ 6.13.4.
30-day ticket with 12 optional season ticket days ...	£17.10.0.	£14. 3.4.	£10.16.8.

Children from 6 — 16 years pay half-fare. A passport photograph is required.

Ask for the special folder containing further useful information.

Regional Season Tickets Bernese Oberland. The interested Transport Undertakings have again published separate folders for their:

Regional General Holiday Season Ticket (yellow) and Regional Kilometric Holiday Season Tickets (turquoise) issued during the period 1st May — 31st October, 1955.

Both publications contain full details regarding the reductions involved and thus allow the traveller to budget his excursion expenses most accurately. It is pointed out that the following two sections: Meiringen-Innertkirchen and Wengen-Maennlichen are not shown in the resp. synoptic maps. Their inclusion in the tickets was decided upon only after the blocks were made.

Currency Regulations. The Treasury of H.M. Government has announced (17.3.55.) the following changes in the present regulations:

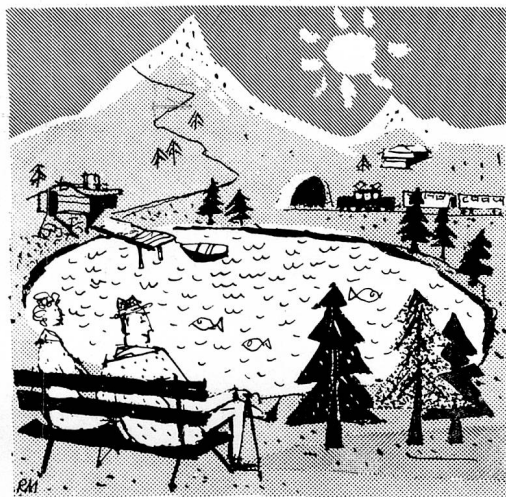

As part of the currency allowance, a maximum amount of £25 (previously £10) may now be had in foreign cash.

The amount which may be taken out of the U.K. in sterling notes to meet expenses on return has been raised from £5 to £10.
