CHARLES WALTER †

On November 22nd, 1955, Charles Walther, of 20, Foley Street, W.1, passed peacefully away at the age of 52.

Although born in London he was brought up in Switzerland where he received his schooling at Zurich. After having accomplished his apprenticeship as a confectioner he returned to London, where he took up a position as chef confectioner, this post he held very competently for 21 years.

In 1932, the deceased married Miss Sally Singer, and this union proved to be a very happy one.

Mr. Walther always kept in touch with his country, which he visited frequently. He leaves a widow, a son, his 80 years old mother, and a sister to whom we extend our deepest sympathy.

To J. J. F. S. (J. Schad).
(On his 75th Birthday.)

Congratulations on your native day
And we, the readers of our dear "S.O.",
Wish to express the gratitude we owe
To you and your pen's versatile display.

Be it a poem, review or essay,
You bring the scene to life, the spark to glow,
Painting in words the perfect cameo
With those impressions you wish to convey.

This great gift you are generous to share
With all who gratefully accept its claim,
So may we, on your birthday, wish you well
And thank you for your writing's magic spell;

Your modesty was ever shy of fame,
But admiration nothing can impair.

LONDON, December 30th, 1955.

"GALLUS".
