A NOVELTY.

Looking through the bundles of Swiss papers we find an announcement that the "Feuille d'Avis de Neuchâtel" is in future sending out their paper sprinkled with Jasmin perfume, in order to alleviate the objectional smell of Printer's ink.

Always anxious to please our readers, we would be glad to hear — should we decide to follow the custom of our contemporary — which perfume they would like us to use, preferably one which would match the smell of egg and bacon.

Simple to prepare, economical to use, appetising to taste—that's MAGGI, the soup everybody asks for! Just add water, simmer for a few moments and there it is—rich, and piping hot! Each package makes at least 180 platefuls and just look at the range of varieties too!
