The board of the "Privat-Kommerzbank A.G.," Zurich, has applied to the Commercial Court of the canton of Zurich for a moratorium. Announcing this in a statement to the Press, the bank said the sudden death of Dr. J. Teitler, a member of the board, had caused serious misgivings among its clients. The board added that there were good grounds for believing that the bank would be able to raise new funds enabling it to open again soon, and to drop the moratorium. Movable information booths sponsored by the Touring Club, the Zurich Tourist Office, the city police and several petrol and tobacco companies have recently been established. They are positioned at the four principal points of entry for motor traffic. Labelled "City Information", the booths are staffed by specially trained students during the summer holiday period. They book hotel rooms, give information on camp sites, excursions, events and even night-life and are expected to be to the motorist what the official Information Office at the Zurich Main Station is to the railway traveller.

The Ticino has always been well-known for its mild climate, as a result of which it has so far not been connected with Winter Sports. However, since the completion of the aerial cable-way Locarno-Alp Cardada and the connecting skilift to a height of 5,576 ft., it is now possible to enjoy ski-ing in half an hour's distance from the wind-sheltered shores of Lake Maggiore with its sub-tropical climate.

At the upper fringe of the Languard Forest, overlooking Pontresina from an altitude of over 6,000 ft. above sea-level, stands the quaint little mountain church of Santa Maria which in recent months has been carefully renovated and equipped with special protective devices against frost, snow and humidity. It has been known for some time that this Marian chapel contained art works some of which were discovered only a few decades ago. It has now been established that the murals include priceless frescoes of the early 12th century and 19 paintings depicting the Mary Magdalene legend and dating back to the second half of the 15th century.
