OPENINGS FOR APPRENTICES

The Uzwil-based company Gebrüder Bühler A.G. is currently looking for recruits for its apprenticeship schemes in Switzerland. The training schemes are of particular interest to British residents born of Swiss parents who would like job training in Switzerland.

Gebrüder Bühler is a leading Swiss engineering company with a group turnover of around 400 million Swiss francs. It employs about 5,500 people, 3,600 of them in Switzerland. Bühler has twelve affiliated companies abroad, and over 80 per cent of its production in Switzerland is exported.

The company is offering apprenticeships ranging from two to four years in length for young people of either sex in a wide variety of jobs, including machine mechanics, engineering draughtsmen, millwrights, tool-makers and assistant chemists. The schemes include testing of an applicant's vocational aptitude, health and accident insurance and physical training by a certified instructor.

In addition, the company undertakes to find suitable families for apprentices to stay with while they are away from home.

Bühler also offers further education to its established employees. There are company courses in electronic data processing, sales promotion and other subjects. And employees can get assistance in courses at higher technical evening schools and universities, with the further possibility of training in overseas subsidiary companies.

The company's address is: Bühler Brothers Ltd., Engineering Works, CH-9240 Uzwil, Switzerland.
