Political Rights of the Swiss Abroad

Lucien Paillard

In conversation with Swiss Abroad one often finds that the difference between «Commune of Presence» (Anwesenheitsgemeinde, commune de présence) and «Voting Commune» (Stimmgemeinde, commune de vote) is not always clear.

For this reason, we shall try and make these terms clear by means of sketches rather than by a longish article.

Commune of Presence

This is the Swiss Commune in which you wish to collect your voting papers. This Commune is entirely your own choice. For instance, you decide on a place where your relatives live, where you have a second place of residence or where you normally spend your holidays.

If you live near the Swiss frontier or you travel to Switzerland specially for a plebiscite, you will no doubt choose a Swiss Commune near the frontier.

Thus you have the choice – there are 3000 Swiss Communes at your disposal.

Voting Commune

This is the Commune in which your ballot paper is counted.

You cannot choose this Commune as you like. That means:

Communications of the Secretariat of the Swiss Abroad

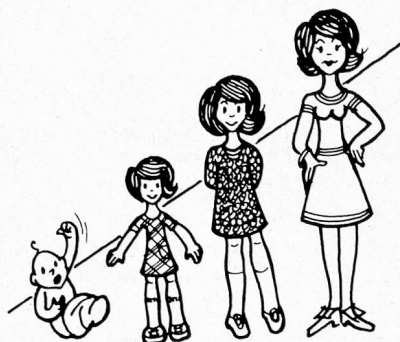

A In case you never lived in Switzerland, it can only be your or one of your Communes of origin.

Example (Valid for Swiss men and women living abroad)

Abroad

Mrs Monica X was born in Guatemala, the child of Swiss parents whose Commune of origin is Brunnen, Canton of Schwyz

During all her schooling and training she has lived in Guatemala

She kept her Swiss nationality also after being married

Now that she wants to make use of her political rights in Switzerland, she applies to the official local Swiss representation

In Switzerland

As Commune of presence, she chooses Lucerne where she collects her voting papers

She fills in her ballot paper which was sent automatically from Brunnen to Lucerne, bearing her name

IN LUCERNE

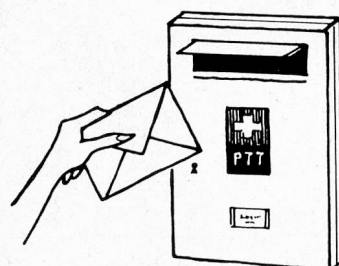

She puts it in an envelope addressed to her Commune of origin (Brunnen)

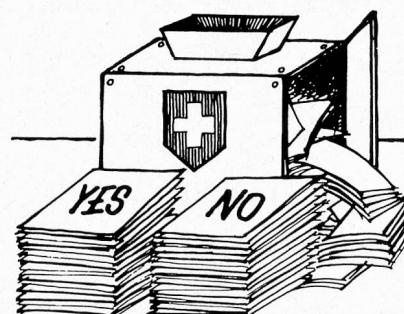

FROM LUCERNE
TO...

She posts the envelope in a letter box and has nothing more to do

Her ballot paper is accepted at Brunnen and is counted with the papers of all the other voters

B Your Voting Commune may be your or one of your Communes of origin or one of the Communes you once resided in and where you deposited your papers on leaving for abroad.

Example

(Valid for Swiss men and women living abroad)

Abroad

Mr Robert Y was born at Murten. His place of origin is Muensingen. He is resident at Melun (France). Previously he had studied in Fribourg for four years and deposited his papers there

Now that he wants to make use of his political rights in Switzerland, he applies to the official local Swiss representation

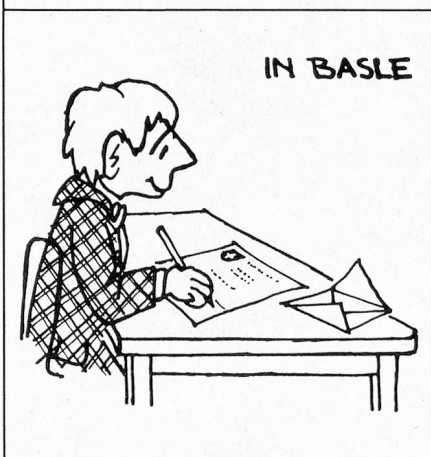

As Commune of Presence he chooses Basle where his parents live at the moment, and as Voting Commune he chooses Murten. He had the choice of three Communes: Murten, Muensingen and Fribourg

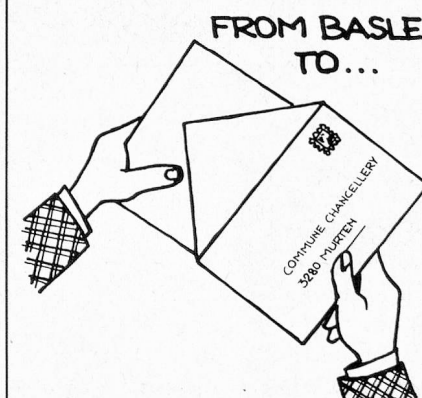

In Switzerland

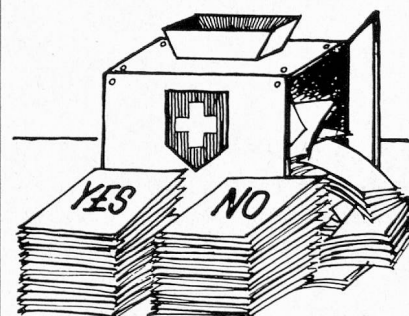

He collects his voting papers in Basle where it was sent from Murten, addressed to him. He fills in his ballot paper

He puts it in an envelope addressed to the Commune of Murten

His ballot paper is accepted at Murten and is counted with the papers of all the other voters

Special case

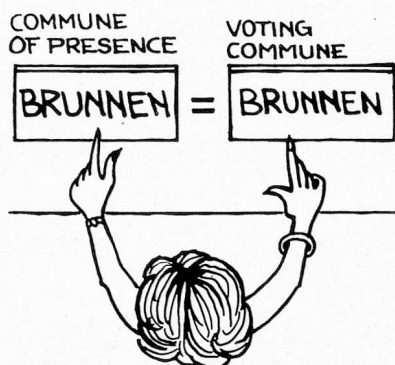

Naturally, your Commune of presence may at the same time be your Voting Commune

Examples

(Valid for Swiss men and women living abroad)

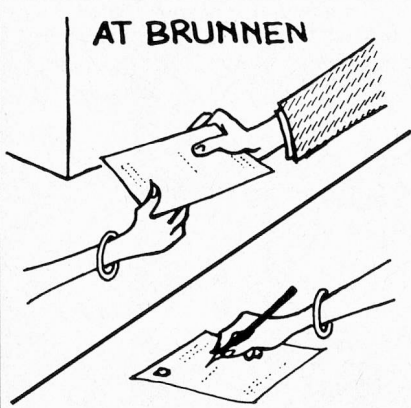

Abroad

Mrs Monica X chooses to have her Commune of origin also as her Voting Commune

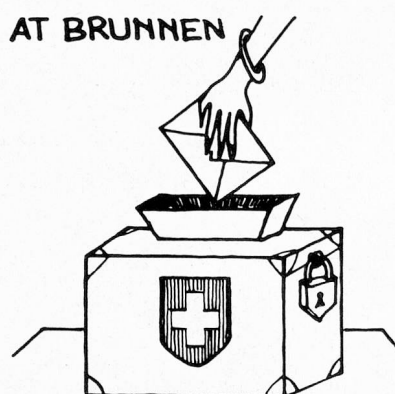

In Switzerland

She collects her voting papers at Brunnen, fills in the ballot paper, and instead of returning it by post

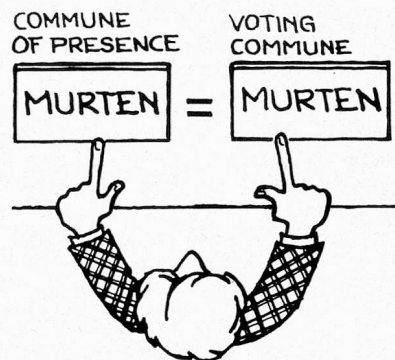

she puts it straight in the ballot-box

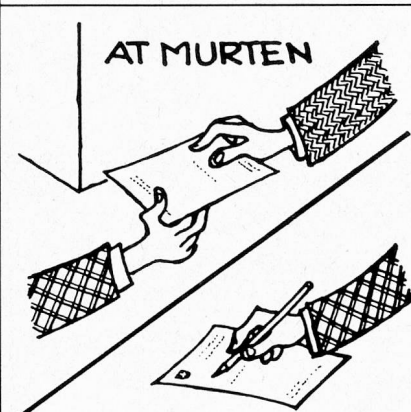

Abroad

Mr Robert Y chooses as his Commune of Presence not Basle where his parents live, but the Commune of Murten which is his Voting Commune at the same time

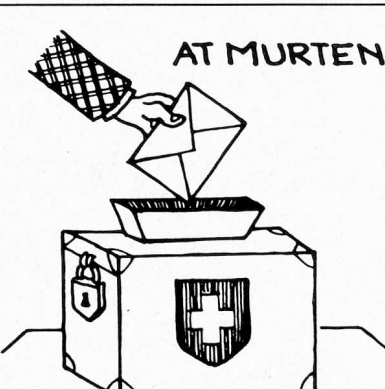

In Switzerland

He collects his voting papers at Murten, fills in the ballot paper, and instead of returning it by post

he puts it straight in the ballot-box

Drawings by Skyll

Please note:

It is advisable that married couples should choose the Voting Commune which is at the same time the Commune of origin of both partners, or a Commune where they had resided together. Thus administrative difficulties can be avoided, and they both have the possibility of acting together, though with separate voting papers.

Remark

Further details may be looked up in the following issues of this periodical: June 76, October 76, December 76, March 77 (with diagram) and March 78.

Communications of the Secretariat of the Swiss Abroad

The Swiss School for Physical Education and Sport of Magglingen

(for the beginning; see issue of June 1978)

Center of scientific research

The medicine in its large extent comes nearer and nearer to sports. The medical intervention is not any longer limited to practical treatments or controls but it will expand to the social sciences as psychology and sociology.

Actually the Research Institute concentrates its main activities on the biological aspect where investigations of the effects of physical exercise on the respiratory and cardiovascular systems, and on metabolism are made.

Very special interest is at the present time centered on the morphological and biochemical changes in the skeletal muscle in view of the various methods of training.

The Research Institute provides medical care for all courses held at the SSPES. The Research Institute is also responsible for all the dope tests being carried out at national and international competitions in Switzerland.

Administration center

The SSPES is in charge of documentation and supervision of the Y+S movement, of the national sports center of Tenero (a «little Magglingen» in the canton of Tessin), of sports for apprentices and of sports facilities.

The school issues also a periodical to be presented later and maintains an information service for each language (German, French, Italian).

Youth and sport offer a great variety of sports activities to young people between 14 and 20 years of age.

The SSPES is responsible – by order of the Confederation – to establish the teaching programs for the different branches. This task is done in close collaboration with the school authorities and with the federations.

The following branches are already introduced within Y+S:

Basketball
Canoeing
Cross country skiing
Cycling
Fitness training
Gymnastics

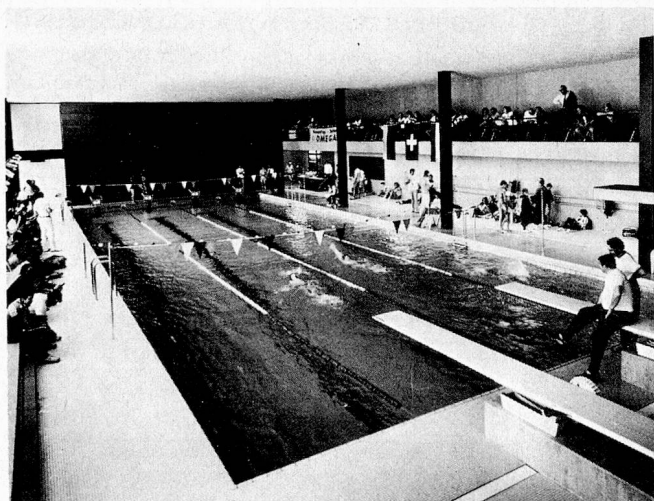

Handball
Hiking and camping
Icehockey
Judo
Mountaineering
Orientation
Rhythmical gymnastics and dance
Rowing
Skiing
Soccer
Swimming
Tennis
Track and Field
Volleyball

Documentation center

By our days we can not imagine the further development without the use of traditional and modern means. The information service of the SSPES disposes of books as well as of a photographic service, it offers realizing films and video tapes and maintains a loan service for all these means.

The library consists of about 30000 books dealing with different technical aspects of sports. It is open to everybody and is free of charge.

About 300 films and 200 video-

Communications of the Secretariat of the Swiss Abroad

tapes as well as some diaporamas are lent out.

Up to now, the SSPES has printed about 40 scientific and didactic papers and books.

Since more than 30 years the school published monthly a periodical in three different editions (German, French and Italian); its title is «Youth and Sport» and its main purpose is to show how important sound physical education is with regard to physical, psychological and moral education of young people in view of the many problems they have to face in today's society. It also serves as a means of supplementary education of the cadre of instructors and the propaganda for sports.

Lodging and sports center

The SSPES is a real school-pension (more than 60 000 rations a year) for athletes of any level. These activities need a staff of many people, for household, kitchen, garden etc. To conclude this little abstract, we can say that the SSPES is really an instrument in good working order of the government to encourage the sport within its reasonable limits and to promote the well-being of the population.

It must be said that a lot of necessary and important work – and not the most attractive work – is done by foreign seasonal staff.

Arnaldo Dell'Avo

Dr. Kaspar Wolf, the director of the SSPES, answers our questions

1. The SSPES is as well a Federal School as a national sports center. Is it ready to allow for the three or even four ethnic groups of Switzerland?

The SSPES is a national institution in charge of promoting the sport on all levels, for young and old, for female and male persons.

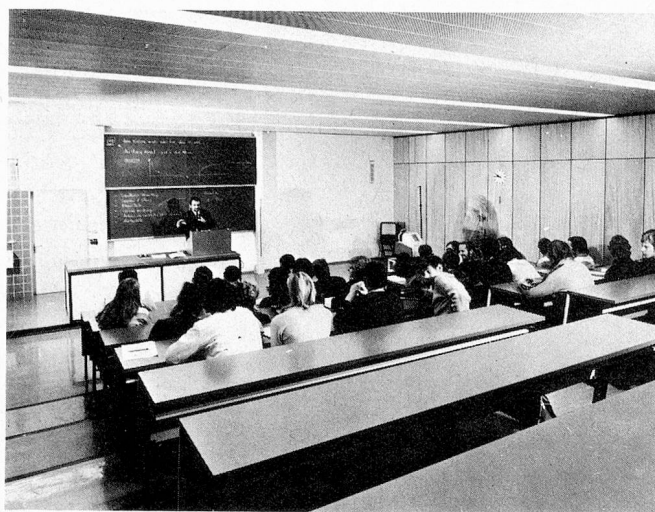

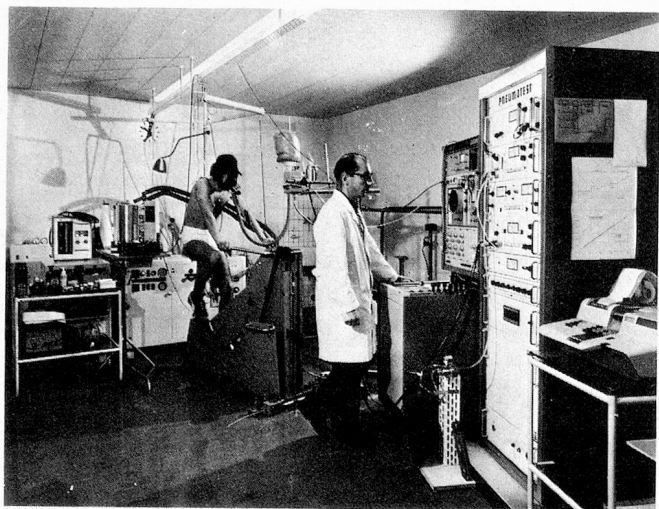

It is not by accident that it is situated on the linguistic boundary between the German and the French part of Switzerland. So it really does its duty for the whole country respectively for all four parts of Switzerland. However there are shades. Most of the employees of the SSPES speak German. The result is a loss of balance in favour of the German part of Switzerland, a fact that sometimes is taken as a little offence by the «Romandie». That is maybe also the reason for the several difficulties to have a little bit more influence on different plans and ideas in this part of Switzerland.

2. Magglingen has lived to see a considerable development as there have been inaugurated some new buildings and sports grounds this very last time. Is it possible to preview by now already a further development of the SSPES in the next future either in planning for the construction of new facilities or in taking charge of new tasks? In fact, the SSPES made great steps as well as in constructing buildings and grounds as in over-taking new tasks. Considering the planning at long terms the main requests of the SSPES have been realized. Of course we miss e.g. a special hall for gymnastics but actually, in this time of lack of finances, it can not be the moment for beginning to plan this building. An other project, the youth sport center in Tenero, in the canton of Tessin, has got better chances to be realized. It is just in view of the problems of the minority of an ethnic group that the government has decided to take it into consideration during the actual legislature period. The SSPES itself does not foresee special extension of its tasks. The stoppage of the government for the employment of new collaborators sometimes even makes it difficult to do all work as good as it should be done. The actual key-note must be «internal stability».

3. The Swiss top level sport is mainly a «private affair». The SSPES belongs to the government. Although there is a narrow collaboration in these fields. Does this fact not cause interferences?

The situation is clear concerning the top level sport: the Swiss Association for Physical Education is in charge of the top level sport. But the SSPES has to held the top level athletes. This is done by contracts between the SSPES and the mentioned «private» partner, in instructing coaches, in lodging the athletes during their training camps and in guaranteeing the medical care and control.

We can state with pleasure that up to now this collaboration works well.

4. The SSPES is a concept – not only in Switzerland but also abroad. How are its relations with similar foreign institutions?

We are glad to say that the SSPES is wellknown abroad. We keep good relations with similar institutions and organizations. Some of our collaborators are members in different international organizations, part of them in leading positions. On the other side the SSPES wants to host people from all over the world during international manifestations. It wants to be place to work and place of meeting. With regard to the smallness of our country our efforts sometimes are to be limited.
