STAR SINGING – AN ANCIENT SWISS CUSTOM

Star singing, a popular custom in Switzerland which can be traced back to the 14th century is still carried on in several places in the Lucerne area, Obwalden, the Rhine Valley, district of St. Gall and in Canton Aargau. The procession which forms on a December evening is led by white-clad, golden-haired star bearers.

They are followed by singing children carrying little oil lamps and a choir of adults with parchment lanterns decorated with coats of arms. At the rear of the procession come the Holy Family, the shepherds and the Magi from orient. Well known throughout the region is the star singing at Wettingen, which takes place in three different places in the township on 23rd December. This year there was also a Nativity play. Rheinfelden observed the Sebastian Singing custom on 24th and 31st December. Honouring vows made in the plague year of 1541, the 12 members of the Sebastian Brotherhood have every year since then sung at that town's seven fountains.

SLEDGING – A POPULAR SPORT FOR ALL AGES

Sledging, whether with an old-type Davos sledge or the latest plastic model is becoming increasingly popular with young and old alike. A large number of resorts have special sledging runs.

A mecca for sledging enthusiasts is the three-mile run from Preda to Bergün. Grächen prepares a run of just over two miles every winter and every Wednesday there is officially-blessed sledging fun by the light of flaming torches, plus a raclette meal in the mountain restaurant.

Other places with goods runs include Braunwald, Kandersteg, Engelberg, Flims, Zuoz, Sils, Mürren, Sent, Grindelwald, St. Imier Valley and Nods-Chasseral. Many people like to make the downrun by moonlight; sledging beneath the full moon is organised at Klosters and Pontresina, while in Engelberg and Arosa flaming torches provide the illumination.

Sledging package arrangements are organised at Davos and the Swiss Bob and Sledging Federation in Zürich provides information about sledge racing.
