Federal

The Federal Chambers have concluded their spring session. The summer session will start on June 3rd, 1952.

In the Council of States the most important business dealt with, was the debate on the draft bill of a revised law on Civic Rights. The most important of the innovations put forward, concerns the question of the maintenance of her civic rights by a Swiss woman who marries a foreigner. (Particulars of this debate will appear in our next issue.)

The Lower House of the Swiss Parliament (National Council) rejected by 80 votes to 31 a private Bill to reintroduce capital punishment.

The Government opposed the Bill on the grounds there was not sufficient evidence to prove capital punishment was a deterrent to crime.

In 1874 Switzerland abolished the death penalty, but a crime wave followed and in 1879 individual cantons were allowed to reintroduce it. Parliament abolished it again in 1937.
