Future Articles

As usual, articles on individual private lines came top of the list, but this year had to share with requests for prototype track plans. Despite the warming of the Cold War, the last information we had was that track plans were still a military secret (officially). Unofficially, no-one ever seems to object to anyone sketching the tracks of a station and, as related by a member in the December issue, plans can sometimes be found in the most unlikely places.

The next most numerous request was for modelling articles, followed closely by Historic, Operational and RhB articles and locomotive monographs and plans. Rolling stock articles and plans were not far behind, nor were requests for holiday and/or day trip suggestions.

Train formations, freight workings, the BLS, funiculars and mountain railways, trams, railway walks and passenger stock also featured as subjects for members. (Editor's comment: Can anyone suggest a Swiss Railway topic not covered in this list?)
