Switzerland Tourism in brief.

With its slogan “Switzerland. get natural.”, Switzerland Tourism promotes Switzerland worldwide as a holiday destination.

The Switzerland Tourism (ST) marketing strategy has a long history. It has been promoting Switzerland as a travel and conference destination at home and abroad for 100 years, by federal mandate. ST positions Switzerland as a tourism brand which stands for quality, naturalness, sustainability and modernity, under the overall concept of “Swissness”. To do so, ST develops marketing initiatives which it implements creatively with its partners through a full range of promotional and sales techniques. ST is a public corporation. Its board comprises 13 representatives from tourism, business and industry associations. ST’s president is Jean-François Roth, while Jürg Schmid is responsible for operational management.

In 2015, Switzerland’s parliament extended ST’s credit facility for 2016–2019 to 230 million Swiss francs, the maximum upper limit. Parliament can, however, decide on the precise amount to be invested annually.

Targeted marketing processes.

ST follows a dual strategy: keeping a strong presence on traditional markets, while intensifying its activities on growth markets.

Visitors from traditional European markets enjoy spending their Swiss holiday in both rural and urban destinations, while guests from long-haul markets continue to clearly favour the cities. This geographical distribution of visitors calls for a dual strategy. ST thus continues to tap into the growth potential of long-haul markets, while staying strongly present in traditional markets.

In Europe, ST is prioritising less price-sensitive markets and segments, while in Asia, the focus is on high-quality individual tourism.

As a holiday destination, Switzerland is becoming more and more popular in the Gulf countries, India and the USA. In 2016, European markets began to show the first signs of a slight recovery. However, developments in the UK are less positive: the stronger Swiss franc vs. the British pound and a weakened consumer confidence have had a negative influence.
