The Tissages de soie, ci-devant Näf Frères S.A., Zurich, are presenting their 1945 collection which includes a wide range of new and interesting qualities in plain fabrics. Their latest and most extensive collection of prints is, as usual, of extremely high quality, and meets all the requirements of new fashion trends as regards designs and colourings. Among the fashioned fabrics, the well-known speciality of the house, a number of novelties and designs are most remarkable and proving a great success. This year, for the first time, the firm is also producing a selection of necktie fabrics. From the outset, the aim of this new line is to offer current qualities and original designs which will be classed among the best of the type.

Reichenbach & Cie, St-Gall

have written us as follows about their « MAPPAMUNDI » (100 % staple fibre) collection :

« In days gone by when, beyond the narrow frontiers of civilization, the world still held boundless unexplored territories to lure Man to adventure and stimulate his imagination, old-time cartographers, whose artistic sense eschewed mere surmise as to yet undiscovered lands, peopled unknown regions with fabulous creatures.

The spirit of man fears the unknown about which the fancy plays extravagantly. And so, in the undiscovered oceans and virgin continents sprang up that strange and grotesque race of marine monsters, pygmies and savages which people the pages of old maps.

We thought it might prove amusing to seek in the venerable in-folios placed at our disposal by the obliging and learned librarians of the Abbey Library and Vadian Library of St. Gall, those fantastic creatures which, in the minds of men to whom science itself was perceived through the prism of poesy, peopled the world. We made many discoveries, but have only used those which are merely amusing, leaving aside all incongruous or monstrous creations — and in this the feminine world will surely appreciate our care for what is truly elegant. »

Table Linen of Messrs. Schmid & Cie, Berthoud.

In olden days white linen table cloths with white napkins to match were, so as to say, classical, and such table linen will probably always be in the best of traditions. In recent years, however, taste and fashions have somewhat changed. We are admiring nowadays the coloured table linen made of artificial fibres which gives so much charm to the table. They are made of rayon and staple fibre of best Swiss quality and of highest technical perfection, and an unlimited number of varieties in tasteful designs and colours can be produced.

This is the reason why we are increasingly finding such pretty coloured table linen for lunch and tea, which gives an intimate touch and warmth to the interior of a room.

There is a great variety of charming designs in sweet tones such as rose, skyblue, champagne, and others to be obtained, and these are meeting with an ever increasing demand in Switzerland and abroad
