FEDERAL.

ARMY-CORPS COMMANDER EDUARD WILDBOLZ.

As reported in our last issue, the death occurred in Berne of the late Army-Corps Com-mander Eduard Wildbolz, at the age of 74.

Colonel Wildbolz, a Bernese, started his military career in 1878 as a cavalry officer; in 1881 he entered the Federal Instruction Corps where he was attached to the cavalry. In order to gain experience, he was sent to Germany, where he served one year with a German cavalry regiment, served one year with a German cavary regiment, on his return he entered the General Staff where for some years he was under the tuition of Colonel Pfyffer von Altishofen. In the year 1896 he was gazetted to colonel and in the same year he was appointed chief instructor of cavalry; throughout his military carrier he kept a warm corner for this special branch of our army, which he, to-gether with Colonel Wille (later General Wille) reorganised from top to bottom, and the high level which the cavalry attained in Switzerland is greatly due to Colonel Wildbolz.

During his appointment he meld various com-During his appointment he field various com-mands, such as chief of staff of the 2nd Army-Corps, commander of a cavalry brigade and head of the 6th infantry brigade. The promotion to a division commander took place in 1908 when he took over the 2nd division, two years later he ex-changed his command with that of the 3rd divi-sion, and it is the latter one which he lead to the frontier when the great war broke out. Through-out the frontier occupation he held this respon-sible command where he enhanced his reputation not only as an efficient leader, but also as a com-mander who had the welfare of all soldiers under his command a theart. He was liked by his officers and men almost like a father. and men almost like a father.

and men almost like a father. In 1917 ensued the promotion to commander of an Army-Corps, in which position he rendered invaluable services to his country, especially after the return of the troops from the frontier and on the occasion of the general strike, during which he showed a firm hand, but he was ever ready to foster a spirit of reconciliation, his unfaltering love for his country, his faith in the good of his fellow countrymen was based on a deep religious conviction, which enabled him, even after his re-tirement from the active list, to serve his country well. He was not only a great soldier but also a great man, and Switzerland has lost in him one of its famous sons. its famous sons.

BASLE COMMUNISTS AND THE B.I.S.

The Communist Party of the Canton and the City of Basle has decided to organize a referendum with the object of vetoing the taxation agreement between the Bank for International Settlements between the bank for international Settlements and the Cantonal authorities which exempts the officials of the bank from the income and inheri-tance tax on their private fortunes in return for an annual payment of 50,000 Swiss frances (£2,000 at par). The Hague Agreement only gives freedom of taxation to the bank itself and the salaries of its officials.

of taxation to the bank then and the salaries of its officials. The Communist Party contends that the sum of 50,000 frances is ridiculously low, since the salary of the president of the bank is 250,000 frances and other officials receive salaries of 100,000 francs and upwards.

LUCERNE.

Nine persons were killed and eight seriously injured in a head-on collision between electric trains in the Gütsch Tunnel, near Lucerne, about three o'clock on the 13 inst.

The two trains were an express from Zurich and a slow train on the St. Gothard line from Lucerne to Bellinzona.

and a slow train on the St. Gothard line from Lucerne to Bellinzona. The express was travelling at about fifty miles an hour, and the other train at about thirty miles. The resulting smash completely wrecked both locomotives, telescoped several carriages, and plunged the tunnel into utter darkness. Failure of the lights in the tunnel made the work of rescne extremely difficult. In the early stages it had to be carried out with flares and lanterns as the only source of light, and it was the moans and cries of the injured that chiefly guided the steps of the rescuers. After three hours' stremous work among the wreckage, six bodies were found, and eleven in-jured were removed to hospital. Three of the in-jured died in hospital a few hours later. Both engine drivers and one of the train conductors were killed outright. The remaining dead were passengers — four men and two women. Search Continues. Oxy-acetylene lamps and mechanical saws are being used to force a way into the wreckage, as it is feared that there may be more bodies yet to be discovered. The telescoved trains completely blocked the

CAMBRIDGE FAVOURITES FOR THE SKI RACES.

CAMBRIDGE FAVOURITES FOR THE SKI RACES. Snow to the depth of over two feet has already fallen at St. Moritz, where the Oxford and Cam-bridge ski teams shortly hold the annual Inter-University Ski Race Meeting. Some members of the ski clubs are already here, but the captains do not actually pick their teams until they have put the probables and possibles through their paces on the spot. Last year, for patriotic reasons, the races were run in Canada, but conditions there were found less pleasant than at St. Moritz. The long sea voyage at this time of the year can be anything but enjoyable; above all, the skiers missed the radiant sunshine and blue skies of the Swiss Alps. Nor was the snow itself of so perfect a quality. The races and ski-jumping competition always take place at Christmas; the date this year is from

The races and ski-jumping competition always take place at Christmas; the date this year is from December 23 to 25th. The Cambridge team are strong favourites. The light Blues are fortunate in having two skiers of exceptional merit to race for them. These are the captain of the team, C. S. F. Taylor, and last year's captain, R. J. Bushnell.
