FEDERAL.

FEDERAL BUDGET ECONOMIES.

FEDERAL BUDGET ECONOMIES. In its last session the Swiss Parliament ex-amined and passed the Federal Budget for 1934, which estimates expenditure at 430,700,000 franes and receipts at 422,400,0000 franes. In conformity with the decisions taken in November, expenditure has been reduced as much as possible. There is a redifficient of 9,000,000 franes on the Budget for 193#Pland of 14,000,000 franes on the 1932 ac-confits. Nearly 2,000,000 franes will be saved on debt' interest, thanks to the conversion of certain loans. About 1,000,000 franes is to be saved by reducing the salaries of State officials, 2,000,000 franes on State subsidies, and 2,500,000 franes on National Defence. The necessity of spending over 19,000,000 franes for helping the unemployed made it impossible to bring about a greater reduction. On the other hand, revenue is estimated to it impossible to bring about a greater reduction. On the other hand, revenue is estimated to show an increase of roughly 40,000,000 frances on the Budget for 1933 and of 3,000,000 frances on the 1932 accounts. The Crisis Tax is estimated to yield about 18,000,000 frances and the new taxes on coupons, spirits, and mineral waters at least 5,000,000 frances. The Federal Public Debt has been reduced by 245,000,000 frances since 1926, when the redemption plan came into operation. At the end of 1933 the Debt stood at about 1,678,000,000 frances — that is, a reduction of 25,000,000 france over the previous year. Parliament has authorised the Federal Coun.

25,000,000 francs over the previous year. Parliament has authorised the Federal Coun-cil to spend another 82,000,000 francs to improve and develop the gun, machine-gun and aircraft equipment of the Army. It was at first proposed to repay that sum by means of yearly instalments of 5,000,000 francs, but it is probable that the Government will prefer to raise that sum by means of a special loan. Thanks to the efforts of the Federal Council, the financial situation is not as bad as it might be, considering the acuteness of the economic crisis, and if conditions improve it will probably be possible to balance the Budget and to continue to reduce the Public Debt. and to continue to reduce the Public Debt.

FRANCO-SWISS TRADE WAR.

The Swiss Chamber of Commerce in Paris has issued a communiqué pointing out that the Franco-Swiss commercial agreement expires on January 31, and that the present state of the negotiations between the two countries inspires the fear that they will not be able to be renewed.

If the discrepancy at present existing be-tween her sales to and her purchases from France of agricultural products is further increased, Switzerland, says the communiqué, will be obliged to take measures, as from February 1, to defend herself against agricultural exports into Switzer-land from Dennes land from France.

RELIC OF MATTERHORN TRAGEDY.

RELIC OF MATTERHORN TRAGEDY. A discovery of interest has been made in the relics of the accident to the Whymper expedition which conquered the Matterhorn on July 14, 1865, and lost four of its members on the way down. In a small museum at Zermatt, opposite Hotel Mont Cervin, a collection of relics of the accident is exhibited. It includes a piece of Ed-ward Whymper's rope, a shoe belonging to Robert Hadow, the Rev. Charles Hudson's Prayer-book, and the rosary and hat of the guide, Michel Croz, of Chamonix, who, the same year, had accom-panied Whymper on the Grand Cornier, Dent Blanche, Grandes Jorasses, and Col Dolent. M. Charles Gos, the Genevese Alpine his-torian, recently examined Croz's hat, which, at first, he had supposed to be an ordinary peasant's fat, such as one could buy at any Savoyan village fair. To his surprise he found that the hat had been but little worn, and that the white silk of the crown bore the inscription : "Harman, 422, Strand, Corner of Bedford Street, London. Estabthe crown bore the inscription: "Harman, 422, Strand, Corner of Bedford Street, London. Estab-lished 1840." The hat is made of a soft and dark woollen fabric. Before being engaged by Whym-per, Michel Croz had been the guide of F. F. Tuckett, William Mathews, and of T. G. Bonney, and perhaps one of them gave him the hat. But Whymper's portrait, which was painted some time before the Mattgethom accent and is now in the Whymper's portrait, which was painted some time before the Matterhorn ascent and is now in the Zermatt museum, shows the famous climber wear-ing a hat exactly like that belonging to Croz. It is therefore possible that Michel Croz received his London hat from the hands of Whymper himself.

* On inquiry "The Times" learned that the firm of Har-man carried on business as hatters at 422, Strand, from 1840 until about 30 years ago. Mr. Herbert Harman is still in business at 65, Jernyn Street. The Strand shop was pulled down to make way for the building of Walter House.

SWISS ARRESTED BY NAZIS.

A Swiss labourer named Baechtold, who passes A Swiss labourer named Baechtold, who passes every day on his bicycle from Schaffhausen to Rheinau over the German enclave for a distance of only a mile and a half, has been arrested by the Nazi police and searched for smuggling, but nothing was found but two numbers of the "Ar-beiter Zeitung," a Socialist newspaper of Schaff-hausen. Under the accusation of circulating Com-numist programade and travelling on German nausen. Choire the accusation of circulating Com-munits propaganda and travelling on German territory without a passport, Baechtold has been put into jail and will be brought before the Special Political Court at Mannheim. Schaffhausen has called for the intervention of the Swiss Federal Council.

SAFETY FIRST.

The Swiss Federal Railways are shortly going The Swiss Federal Railways are shortly going to introduce, starting on the main lines, a system of automatically stopping trains which prevents them going by signals set against them and col-liding with other trains. After many trials, the railways have decided in favour of an electro-magnetic system made by a Zurich factory, which has the advantage of working without any move-ment liable to cause trouble and is quite un-affected by atmospheric conditions, frost, snow and rain. A magnet is placed on the rails near the first signal and works an apparatus on any engine passing a signal set against it. The driver, warned by a siren, can stop the train at the second signal. If he fails to do so, the electric current is automatically cut off and the com-pressed air brakes put into action, stopping the train immediately. Further safety is ensured by train immediately. Further safety is ensured by the fact that if the system gets out of order in any way a train can still be stopped. The trials carried out some time ago on the Berne-Thun line have shown that the new system works perfectly at all speeds.
