The Swiss authorities have recently arrested the Rumanian commercial attaché at Berne, M. Soltan Vitianu, on a charge of economic espionage.

As a reprisal, the Rumanian Government has ordered the closing of all Swiss Consulates in Rumania, and has expelled in humiliating circumstances a prominent Swiss who had spent all his life in Rumania.

A Swiss communiqué declares that Rumania's action is contrary to international law and to the treaties in force between the two countries. The Swiss Foreign Office, it is said "would take necessary measures." In the meantime, the case against Vitianu, has been referred to the Federal High Court.

Economics

The "Financial Times" writes under the headings "Swiss Interest in E.R.P.", "Franco-Swiss Payments" and "Swiss Trade in East Europe," as follows:—

While Switzerland receives no credits under the Marshall Aid plan, the European Recovery Programme has a strong indirect bearing on her economic balance. Swiss economic leaders are fully aware of Switzerland's dependence on the economic recovery of Europe as a whole.

Rather than credits for imports, the need is for payment for exports. The Swiss franc is possibly the hardest currency in the world, but this tends to make marketing extremely difficult. The sounder the economic situation of Switzerland's trading partners, therefore, the easier will be her foreign trade.

The French Swiss payments agreement has been renewed. The payment system as established on March 1st, 1948, has just been extended to November 13th, 1948.

Commercial deals will now continue to be based on an average rate between the official and free price of the French franc as quoted on the Paris market, that is Fr.1.65, whereas financial deals will take place at the free rate of Fr.1.30, a condition that is a disadvantage for Swiss creditors.

In spite of the advantage given to French exporters, the surplus of French exports over imports from Switzerland during the second quarter of 1948 (22 million Swiss francs) does not reach half the amount for the same period of 1947. This is mainly due to the increase of internal French prices.

Moreover, if the balance is favourable to France it is because she only grants imports licences for Swiss goods within the frame of her possibilities which she fixes herself. As long as an increase of French prices is not stopped, the Swiss circles concerned do not expect a considerable improvement in the situation.

Swiss commercial relations with Eastern Europe are being revised. Talks with Finland are due to start in August. Commercial traffic with the Finns has developed during the last years, imports being in 1947 worth 18.3 million Swiss francs (£1.05 millions), whereas exports to Finland were Frs.13 millions (£.75 millions).

Main obstacle to any increase is the strictly bilateral nature of Finnish trade and Finland's obligation to give priority to its reconstruction programme.

With Poland the chief problem is coal. According to an agreement concluded in August, 1946, Switzerland pledged itself to import Polish coal for five years up to 25 per cent. of its needs, but reserved liberty with regard to prices. In the event the prices asked were not competitive with those offered from other sources, and thus the commercial balance was upset. New negotiations will have to foresee greater Swiss imports of goods other than coal.

With Rumania and Bulgaria actual exchanges are far from reaching the figures envisaged by the 1946 agreements, the difference being Frs.5 millions (£.29 millions) on the average each year for each of these two countries.

This unfavourable development is explained largely by bad crops and informed circles here consider any revival of exchanges will be difficult in the pending negotiations.

In the issue of the "Birmingham Mail" of August 9th, 1948, appeared under the heading, "Thank you, Mr. Kunzle" the following article:—

"During a recent holiday in Switzerland one of our readers paid a visit to the home at Davos which Mr. Christian Kunzle has placed at the disposal of the Birmingham Education Committee for ailing and delicate children during their period of convalescence.

He says that the parents or guardians of these boys may rest assured that they look fit and well and are being given every possible attention. All were warmly clothed and appeared to be enjoying their stay. A visit was paid to the school-room, where lessons were in progress. This room has a glass veranda overlooking the mountain slopes and is fitted with a desk for each boy. When questioned, the young charges were unanimous that they were happy and contented and making good progress. Our correspondent states: "From what I saw during my brief visit to "The Castle on the Hill" I would like to say: Thank you, Mr. Kunzle, for your sympathetic and public spirited action for the loan of your home and staff. To the Birmingham City Councillors who were wise enough to accept the offer I would say: Try and get an increased grant approved for increasing the number of children to 50 boys and 50 girls. And to the parents, do please give these boys a chance when they come home by continuing to give them the care and attention which has been so freely and unselfishly given to them in Switzerland."

Un Américain raconte dans le “ Reader's Digest ” ce qui l'a le plus frappé en Suisse : Le matin, la literie prend l'air aux fenêtres. Les Suisses dorment bien, car ils ont la conscience tranquille. Chaque année sont imprimés 3,000 livres nouveaux, ce qui en représenterait 95,000 pour l'Amérique. Les Suisses ne sont pas riches, mais ils sont généreux. Je n'ai jamais rencontré de mendiants. Les hôtels suisses, grands ou petits, sont les meilleurs de toute la terre. Les chemins de fer constituent un miracle dans l'Europe dévastée. Seuls les hauts fonctionnaires des chemins de fer voyagent en 1ère classe. Le grand nombre d'appareils téléphoniques est une vraie merveille. A 7 heures, on fait sa toilette matinale, on se brosse les dents et on se peigne les cheveux. Les directeurs d'entreprises, les banquiers, les professeurs sont à leur poste à 8 heures en hiver et à 7 heures en été ; à Paris et à Londres, on ne rencontre ces messieurs qu'à partir de 10 heures. C'est par un travail acharné et constant que les Suisses sont parvenus à un standard de vie élevé . . . Sachons être dignes de pareils éloges !
