chromium office building. This eye-sore in the medieval silhouette of Lucerne's "Old Town" was to replace a beautiful old framework structure. "We have no objection whatever to modern designs in architecture, but we certainly will fight against any attempt to destroy our city's centuries-old architectural monuments," the youngsters argued, and it seems that they have already won: According to unconfirmed reports the endangered riverside house and its entire neighbourhood reaching as far uphill as the tower-studded city-walls, will be placed under monument protection.

Bellinzona: The spring and summer season programmes of Lugano and Locarno, Southern Switzerland's two leading lakeside resorts, are packed with extraordinary events. An International Exhibition of Black-and-White Sketches and Etchings will open at Lugano on April 14th and last till June 12th. Nearby Mendrisio will again attract crowds of visitors to its traditional Maundy Thursday and Good Friday Processions on April 14th and 15th. Staged in the original splendour of historic and religious costumes and displays, they are considered unique for this part of Europe. The "Concerts of Lugano" is the unpretentious name of what could be called an international music festival. This series of gala concerts will begin in April and feature world-famous guest orchestras, conductors and soloists throughout the season. A final highlight of Lugano's tourist season will be reached on Sunday, October 2nd, when the traditional Grape-Harvest Festival culminates in a parade of floats.
